Airline Deal Proposed

Castro's Offer To Free More Gets Cool Reception

HAVANA (AP)—A cool reception greeted today the Castro government's offer to let more Cubans go to the United States if Pan American Airways resumed flights between Havana and Miami.

A Pan American spokesman in New York said the line had little desire to resume normal service to Cuba. He said the company had lost heavily on its flights to Cuba in recent years because of restrictions and limited travel to the island.

The State Department banned private and commercial flights to Cuba during the Cuban crisis. The ban is still on although it was lifted temporarily when the Cuban invasion prisoners were ransomed and flown out.

"The revolutionary government," said a communique from Prime Minister Fidel Castro's office, "will maintain its policy to authorize the departure from the country for all those desiring to leave as soon as the Pan American Airways resumes its flights to Cuba which it suspended by a decision of North American authorities."

Official sources denied reports that Castro had agreed to allow more relatives of the Bay of Pigs invaders to follow the prisoners to the United States. James B. Donovan, the New York attorney who negotiated the release of the prisoners and nearly 1,000 of their relatives, said Saturday in Lake Placid, N.Y., that Castro had agreed to let an additional 2,500 relatives go to the United States.

Donovan said as each installment of the $53 million worth of ransom food and drugs for the prisoners was delivered, another group of relatives would be released.

The Cuban communique also denied a report by Donovan that Castro might go to the United Nations to negotiate the release of 21 Americans imprisoned in Cuba.

"Kennedy made a real effort to forget his Yankee aristocratic prejudices when he called brothers these contemptible Latin Americans born in Cuba," the broadcast said.

"One of the most ridiculous aspects of the show staged by Kennedy and his mercenaries was the reference to the fake brigade flag which Kennedy promised to return some day to what he called a free Havana."

U.N. Command Claims New Victory In Katanga

Secessionist Chief Vows Death Fight

Tshombe Reported On Way Back After Flight To Rhodesia

BULLETIN

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP)—President Moise Tshombe's troops battled U.N. Congo command units in north Katanga today, challenging a U.N. claim of lightning victory in this third military campaign against the secessionist province.

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP)—Fighting was reported continuing today on the outskirts of the town of Kamina, in the northwest Congo.

The U.N. command in Leopoldville said units of a Swedish battalion and a Ghanaian company were under fire.

The world organization claimed the capture of Kamina town Sunday afternoon after Ghanaian troops broke out of the nearby former Belgian base. But messages reaching Leopoldville this morning said three Katangan companies were still in the town Sunday night, the United Nations said.

Ghanaian troops were reported by the United Nations to have captured a road and rail junction about 15 miles from Kamina, while Swedish troops were said to have taken intact about 10 miles of railroad track to the east.

As the U.N. forces consolidated their lightning military victory, the U.N. command gave Katanga pilots until noon Tuesday to surrender themselves and their planes.

A U.N. message to Katangan pilots of both civil and military planes ordered them to fly their aircraft to the U.N. air base of Manono between 6 a.m. and noon.

All Katangan planes which have not been surrendered by that time will be destroyed wherever they

97 Crashes Listed; City Nears Record

With a few hours still remaining to be counted, the city has recorded 97 traffic accidents this month for what may be an all-time record, Police Chief Americo Radeschi said today.

A heavy snowstorm early this month and icy streets Saturday, when 10 accidents were reported, aided in establishing a new high for the year, exceeding the 59 reported last January, Radeschi said.

One hundred people, including 17 pedestrians, had been injured up to Dec. 1 and 13 motorists had been arrested for driving under the influence of intoxicants, the chief said.

Philadelphia Wife Has Quads But 3 Die

PHILDELPHIA (AP)—The wife of an aerospace engineer gave brith to quardruplets Sunday. Three of them died.

The fourth, a boy was reported in critical condition today.

"We were both told together of the deaths," said the father, Alvin Spector, 27. "Of course we were very sad to hear it. There was nothing we could do. The hospital did everything they could. We just had to accept the fact."

The three boys and a girl were the first children born to the Spectors, childhood sweethearts who married two years ago.

'Infant' 1963 Needs Parka To Make Bow

Infant 1963 will need a parka or a fur-lined overcoat in addition to his traditional diaper garb when he makes his bow in East Liverpool at midnight.

The Ohio weatherman said bitter cold is due again tonight for the advent of the new year, possibly bringing lower readings than those noted early today.

There will be scattered snow flurries today and the mercury will go to a high of 12-19 degrees, the forecaster said.

The low tonight will range from 3 to 8 degrees. Suburban areas had a low of 2 above early today, while in downtown East Liverpool the mercury fell to 9.

A light snow fell overnight, turning rural areas white again, but highways remained in comparatively good condition. The tiny flakes blew off the highways in most places before they could slick traffic lanes.

Taverns and private clubs throughout the area are prepared for one of the busiest nights of the year. Many organizations have scheduled special parties and dances to welcome the new year.

As 1962 prepared to bow out, weather was making news throughout the nation.

High velocity winds tore down power lines, may have swept a youth off a ferryboat to apparent death, and overturned a motorboat whose operator drowned.

The powerful gusts also ripped off a movie house roof, toppled a huge construction crane and literally blew a river from its bed, stranding numerous boats.

The wintry blast also brought fresh accumulations of snow in some places.

Bangor, Maine, had at least 21 inches of new snow on top of the 15 inches previously fallen. Howling winds piled up drifts as high as 20 feet.

Mrs. Monnie Waite Injured In Chester

A Chester area woman is in "critical" condition today at City Hospital with injuries suffered when her car hit a tree on a curve on Carolina Ave., Chester, Sunday about 1:35 a.m.

Mrs. Monnie L. Waite, 31, of Route 30 near Chester, suffered crushed ribs and lacerations of the forehead and nose.

Patrolman Frank Fetty said her 1953 sedan hit a tree while traveling east on Carolina Ave. near 2nd St. The same tree has been hit in other accidents.

The car was demolished. Police said there were no skid marks. She was alone.

Police said Thomas Cunningham Jr. of the Fairview Rd., Chester, who was driving west, witnessed the accident. He notified a nearby resident, who called Patrolman Fetty at City Hall and a Chester ambulance.

4 Killed, 4 Injured In Pennsy Pike Crash

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)— A two-car collision on the Pennsylvania Turnpike Sunday afternoon near Harrisburg claimed four lives — three New Yorkers and one Pennsylvanian. Four others were injured.

They were pronounced dead at the scene.

Investigators reported one car was attempting to pass a truck when it ran out of control, crossed the medial strip and skidded into the path of the Snyder vehicle.

Tax Cut Bid May Be Over $4 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter Heller, chairman of President Kennedy's Council of Economic Advisers, has indicated the tax cut the administration will request of the new Congress will total more than $4 billion.

"What is required is not a small cut of $1 billion or $2 billion, but a substantial cut. A $3 billion or $4 billion cut won't do the job," Heller said in an interview Sunday on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers."

Heller described the still-unveiled administration tax plan as a big balanced program. Included, he said, will be a large reduction in the lower brackets, a cut in tax rates above 65 per cent, more incentive for investment and a reduction in corporate rates.

Opponents of tax reduction have argued that lower levies would balloon the federal deficit. On this point Heller said the choice was further deficits with a weak economy or tax reduction with some temporary deficits and a growing expanding economy.

Heller said the economy was capable of producing $30 billion to $40 billion more in goods and services without strain. This, plus full employment, would produce some $5 billion more in taxes, he said.

The state of the nation's economy was the subject also of a yearend statement Saturday by Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges.

Economic activity has achieved record levels, he said, and the economy is basically sound. But, he added, the rate of forward movement in recent months was slowing down.

Talks Remain 'Stymied' In Dock Strike

But Wirtz Reports 'Better Relations' By Negotiators

NEW YORK (AP)—Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz has reported more understanding on both sides in the eight-day-old longshoremen's strike. But the chief union negotiator said the negotiations were still "stymied."

Wirtz, who is chief mediator in the dispute which has tied up shipping from Maine to Texas, said talks on money and fringe issues would continue today.

A few hours before Wirtz spoke Sunday night of "more understanding" he said at a news conference that he believed a basis had been worked out for solving the question of a two-year study of the size of work gangs.

"I think that problem, if not behind us, at least can be handled," he added.

The shipping industry's desire to cut the size of work gangs from 20 to 17 men is a chief issue in the contract dispute involving 60,000 members of the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association.

Chief union negotiator Thomas Gleason discussed an offer by the employers Sunday and said "We don't like it at all." He had presented a new union proposal that he said "should be the means of ending this strike," but he gave no details.

A spokesman for the union said its proposal included a two-year contract during which a study of the manpower issue would be made, with no strike during the term of the contract; a 50-cent package including 15 cents an hour in the first year and 11 cents the second year in wages, plus

Magazine Picks Pope As 'Man Of The Year'

NEW YORK (AP)—Pope John XXIII has been named by Time magazine as its Man of the Year.

The announcement, made Sunday, said the Pope was picked by Time's editors largely because of the Ecumenical Council he called in Rome to further Christian unity.

He is the first religious leader to be named since Time started the Man of the Year selections in 1927.

ICC Takes Action

Railroad Merger Gets Green Light

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission set up one of the nation's biggest railroad mergers today by authorizing the Chesapeake & Ohio to gain control of the Baltimore & Ohio.

Approval of the control plan came as two other big Eastern railroad unification plans were being processed by the commission.

These would unite the New York Central with the Pennsylvania and the Nickel Plate with the Norfolk & Western.

The commission emphasized that the C&O-B&O case involves only an acquisition of control by an exchange of stock. But the C&O had made quite clear that this was intended as a preliminary step to merger of its operations and those of the B&O.

The ICC said the stock-exchange deal between the C&O and B&O would strengthen the financial condition of the B&O and both carriers will continue to operate as separate railroads.

"Approval of the application will not foreclose our opportunity to consider the lawfulness of any future merger application," the commission added, "nor will it prevent interested parties from raising objections to proposals of that application when it is presented to the commission for its approval."

But railroad industry observers had acknowledged beforehand that approval of the C&O-B&O control plan would be a major step toward the proposed development of three major rail systems in the East through merger.

The C&O operates about 5,091 miles of railroad in a generally V-shaped pattern running northeast and southeast from Chicago. One arm runs through Detroit to Buffalo, N.Y. The other extends through Cincinnati to Newport News, Va. and Washington. The railroad's headquarters is in Cleveland.

The B&O, which went from riches to rags in its 135-year history, operates about 5,910 miles of road in New York, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, Missouri, Michigan and the District of Columbia. It is based in Baltimore.

The C&O, whose property is valued for rate-making purposes

Midnight To End Tense 1962

Troubled World Awaits Start Of Uncertain 1963

By The Associated Press

The end of an internatonally tense 1962 and the start of an uncertain 1963 arrive tonight for countless millions around the troubled world.

For many, the midnight transition from the old to the new will bring joyful reflections. For others, it will spark sad recollections.

Millions will flock to churches to raise their voices in song and prayer — thanking God for the blessings of the old year and asking His guidance through the year to come.

Others will sing out the old and shout in the new at entertainment spots ranging from cozy corner taverns and tiny dance halls to big city auditoriums and night clubs.

To get to their parties, some will trudge through inches of snow. Others will walk along palm-lined boulevards under balmy summer-like skies.

Many will be oblivious to the magic instant. They are the very sick, the very young, the very tired.

The moment will go virtually unnoticed by those assigned to the task of keeping the vital services of a complex society rolling.

Some will die around the stroke of twelve. Others will be spanked into life.

Particular emphasis has been put on highway safety with hotels, coffee shops, expensive restaurants and churches offering free lodging, coffee and a moment

Van Allen Assails Committee's Report On Radiation Belt

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The President's Science Advisory Committee has drawn sharp criticism from Dr. James Van Allen, discoverer of the radiation effects of a nuclear test last July.

In other developments at the meeting:

A space agency official announced the United States plans to land an expeditionary force of robot detectives on Mars in 1966 to search for life there. He described the ingenious devices being developed or studied to carry out the assignment.

Space doctors weighing the risks stresses and safety factors for the Apollo moon flights expected by 1970 reported there will be an arbitrary retirement age for astronauts flying to the moon. They said this would not be in terms of years but in exposure to penetrating radiation in space.

The Van Allen dispute grew out of a Science Advisory Committee report in August which implied that a nuclear test last July 250 miles above Johnston Island in the Pacific had created an artificial radiation belt that would last

Tax Cut Bid May Be Over $4 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter Heller, chairman of President Kennedy's Council of Economic Advisers, has indicated the tax cut the administration will request of the new Congress will total more than $4 billion.

"What is required is not a small cut of $1 billion or $2 billion, but a substantial cut. A $3 billion or $4 billion cut won't do the job," Heller said in an interview Sunday on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers."

Heller described the still-unveiled administration tax plan as a big balanced program. Included, he said, will be a large reduction in the lower brackets, a cut in tax rates above 65 per cent, more incentive for investment and a reduction in corporate rates.

Opponents of tax reduction have argued that lower levies would balloon the federal deficit. On this point Heller said the choice was further deficits with a weak economy or tax reduction with some temporary deficits and a growing expanding economy.

Heller said the economy was capable of producing $30 billion to $40 billion more in goods and services without strain. This, plus full employment, would produce some $5 billion more in taxes, he said.

The state of the nation's economy was the subject also of a yearend statement Saturday by Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges.

Economic activity has achieved record levels, he said, and the economy is basically sound. But, he added, the rate of forward movement in recent months was slowing down.

Talks Remain 'Stymied' In Dock Strike

But Wirtz Reports 'Better Relations' By Negotiators

NEW YORK (AP)—Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz has reported more understanding on both sides in the eight-day-old longshoremen's strike. But the chief union negotiator said the negotiations were still "stymied."

Wirtz, who is chief mediator in the dispute which has tied up shipping from Maine to Texas, said talks on money and fringe issues would continue today.

A few hours before Wirtz spoke Sunday night of "more understanding" he said at a news conference that he believed a basis had been worked out for solving the question of a two-year study of the size of work gangs.

"I think that problem, if not behind us, at least can be handled," he added.

The shipping industry's desire to cut the size of work gangs from 20 to 17 men is a chief issue in the contract dispute involving 60,000 members of the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association.

Chief union negotiator Thomas Gleason discussed an offer by the employers Sunday and said "We don't like it at all." He had presented a new union proposal that he said "should be the means of ending this strike," but he gave no details.

A spokesman for the union said its proposal included a two-year contract during which a study of the manpower issue would be made, with no strike during the term of the contract; a 50-cent package including 15 cents an hour in the first year and 11 cents the second year in wages, plus

He is the first religious leader to be named since Time started the Man of the Year selections in 1927.

ICC Takes Action

Railroad Merger Gets Green Light

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interstate Commerce Commission set up one of the nation's biggest railroad mergers today by authorizing the Chesapeake & Ohio to gain control of the Baltimore & Ohio.

Approval of the control plan came as two other big Eastern railroad unification plans were being processed by the commission.

These would unite the New York Central with the Pennsylvania and the Nickel Plate with the Norfolk & Western.

The commission emphasized that the C&O-B&O case involves only an acquisition of control by an exchange of stock. But the C&O had made quite clear that this was intended as a preliminary step to merger of its operations and those of the B&O.

The ICC said the stock-exchange deal between the C&O and B&O would strengthen the financial condition of the B&O and both carriers will continue to operate as separate railroads.

"Approval of the application will not foreclose our opportunity to consider the lawfulness of any future merger application," the commission added, "nor will it prevent interested parties from raising objections to proposals of that application when it is presented to the commission for its approval."

But railroad industry observers had acknowledged beforehand that approval of the C&O-B&O control plan would be a major step toward the proposed development of three major rail systems in the East through merger.

The C&O operates about 5,091 miles of railroad in a generally V-shaped pattern running northeast and southeast from Chicago. One arm runs through Detroit to Buffalo, N.Y. The other extends through Cincinnati to Newport News, Va. and Washington. The railroad's headquarters is in Cleveland.

The B&O, which went from riches to rags in its 135-year history, operates about 5,910 miles of road in New York, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, Missouri, Michigan and the District of Columbia. It is based in Baltimore.

Midnight To End Tense 1962

Troubled World Awaits Start Of Uncertain 1963

By The Associated Press

The end of an internatonally tense 1962 and the start of an uncertain 1963 arrive tonight for countless millions around the troubled world.

For many, the midnight transition from the old to the new will bring joyful reflections. For others, it will spark sad recollections.

Millions will flock to churches to raise their voices in song and prayer — thanking God for the blessings of the old year and asking His guidance through the year to come.

Others will sing out the old and shout in the new at entertainment spots ranging from cozy corner taverns and tiny dance halls to big city auditoriums and night clubs.

To get to their parties, some will trudge through inches of snow. Others will walk along palm-lined boulevards under balmy summer-like skies.

Many will be oblivious to the magic instant. They are the very sick, the very young, the very tired.

The moment will go virtually unnoticed by those assigned to the task of keeping the vital services of a complex society rolling.

Some will die around the stroke of twelve. Others will be spanked into life.

Particular emphasis has been put on highway safety with hotels, coffee shops, expensive restaurants and churches offering free lodging, coffee and a moment

Van Allen Assails Committee's Report On Radiation Belt

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The President's Science Advisory Committee has drawn sharp criticism from Dr. James Van Allen, discoverer of the radiation effects of a nuclear test last July.

In other developments at the meeting:

A space agency official announced the United States plans to land an expeditionary force of robot detectives on Mars in 1966 to search for life there. He described the ingenious devices being developed or studied to carry out the assignment.

Space doctors weighing the risks stresses and safety factors for the Apollo moon flights expected by 1970 reported there will be an arbitrary retirement age for astronauts flying to the moon. They said this would not be in terms of years but in exposure to penetrating radiation in space.

The Van Allen dispute grew out of a Science Advisory Committee report in August which implied that a nuclear test last July 250 miles above Johnston Island in the Pacific had created an artificial radiation belt that would last are found, the U.N. command said.

The United Nations said earlier that Swedish jet fighters had almost completely eliminated the Katanga air force, destroying two British Vampire jets and four or five converted Harvard trainers on the ground.

The United Nations reported that the Belgian mayor of Elisabethville had agreed to cooperate with the world organization. The United Nations claimed on Sunday Belgian public utilities technicians had refused to work for the United Nations but later agreed to work under the auspices of the Red Cross.

Katanga's president, Moise Tshombe, after an overnight visit to neighboring Southern Rhodesia, left Salisbury in a Rhodesian air force transport. His destination was not disclosed, but it was believed he was returning to Katanga.

Tshombe vowed that his secessionist province would fight to the death rather than accept forced reunification with the Congo central government. He said the Katangans "were only defending themselves" and the U.N. "for a long time prepared to attack us."

On the diplomatic front, pressure built up in Britain and Belgium against any attempt to translate the U.N. military sweep into quick Congo unity.

A British government plea for "discussion and negotiation." in Katanga brought charges from the opposition Labor party that Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's Conservative regime was trying to thwart U.N. plans for ending the partition of the Congo.

British, Belgian and American capital back mining operations in mineral-rich Katanga, which seceded from the poverty-stricken rest of the Congo almost as soon as Belgium ended its colonial rule in June 1960.

"A military promenade" was the label pinned by a Western diplomat on the swift U.N. cleanup of Tshombe's forces. The U.N. command said it launched the three-day offensive only after it endured a crescendo of Katangan bombardments.

Thant said it had been "an unhappy circumstance and a matter of regret to me that it became necessary" to resort to military force.

are found, the U.N. command said.

The United Nations said earlier that Swedish jet fighters had almost completely eliminated the Katanga air force, destroying two British Vampire jets and four or five converted Harvard trainers on the ground.

The United Nations reported that the Belgian mayor of Elisabethville had agreed to cooperate with the world organization. The United Nations claimed on Sunday Belgian public utilities technicians had refused to work for the United Nations but later agreed to work under the auspices of the Red Cross.

Katanga's president, Moise Tshombe, after an overnight visit to neighboring Southern Rhodesia, left Salisbury in a Rhodesian air force transport. His destination was not disclosed, but it was believed he was returning to Katanga.

Tshombe vowed that his secessionist province would fight to the death rather than accept forced reunification with the Congo central government. He said the Katangans "were only defending themselves" and the U.N. "for a long time prepared to attack us."

On the diplomatic front, pressure built up in Britain and Belgium against any attempt to translate the U.N. military sweep into quick Congo unity.

A British government plea for "discussion and negotiation." in Katanga brought charges from the opposition Labor party that Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's Conservative regime was trying to thwart U.N. plans for ending the partition of the Congo.

British, Belgian and American capital back mining operations in mineral-rich Katanga, which seceded from the poverty-stricken rest of the Congo almost as soon as Belgium ended its colonial rule in June 1960.

"A military promenade" was the label pinned by a Western diplomat on the swift U.N. cleanup of Tshombe's forces. The U.N. command said it launched the three-day offensive only after it endured a crescendo of Katangan bombardments.

Thant said it had been "an unhappy circumstance and a matter of regret to me that it became necessary" to resort to military force.

Man Killed, 2 Sisters Are Injured In Fire

Firemen found the body of David Parker in the ruins several hours after the fire routed his parents and seven brothers and sisters from their sleep on the second floor. The victim, who did not live in the home, had been asleep in the living room.

Parker's sisters, Donna, 13 and Mildred, 18, suffered from smoke inhalation and were reported in fair condition in a hospital here.

New Post Office Regulation Rules Out Midget Envelopes

Those watchfob-sized birth announcements will be taboo starting tomorrow, when the Post Office's new minimum - size regulation goes into effect, Postmaster Samuel W. Brown said today.

But the arrival cards will not be the only items affected. The new regulation will affect all mail, he said, explaining the purpose of the new ruling is to weed out miniature cards and letters which jam up the mechanics of mail-handling.

"They may be a joy to the people who receive them, but they are a headache to postal workers," Brown commented.

The new regulation has nothing to do with a boost in postal rates which will become effective Monday, Jan. 7, the postmaster continued.

That will boost first class mail from four to five cents; postal cards from three to four cents, and air mail from seven to eight cents. Adjustments also will be made in second and third class mail, he said.

The new minimum size regulation provides that all mailing pieces must be at least 3-x-4¼ inches, an increase of a quarter inch in both directions over the present minimums.

With the Post Office resorting more and more to automation, the smaller items clog up the machines, Brown said.

Small cards and letters will be stamped "not mailable" and those sent first class will be returned to the sender, the postmaster explained.

The new size was advertised two years ago to allow firms and envelope manufacturers time to eliminate stocks of under - sized pieces, he said.

Brown said he believes the time has come for a regulation on maximum size since overly large items, chiefly cards, also cause obstructions in cancelling machines.

Cleveland Police Chief Resigns At Mayor's Bid

CLEVELAND (AP) — Police Chief Frank W. Story resigned at the suggestion of Mayor Ralph S. Locher today after a brief meeting with the mayor.

The resignation is effective at midnight tonight. The mayor had asked Story to consider retirement, but said the request was no reflection against the chief.

A successor was not chosen immediately.

As chief, Story is exempt from Cleveland's mandatory 70-year retirement age for members of the Police Department, but Locher said he felt the rule also should apply to the chief. Story will be 72 next month.

The mayor said that younger men in the department should be "given an opportunity to advance through the ranks."

Story, a veteran of 47 years on the police force, has served as chief since 1951.

Warnings Ahead For 1963

Economic Boom Slowed Up In Europe During '62

LONDON (AP) — The European economic boom slowed down perceptively in 1962. From several directions came warnings of economic troubles ahead for 1963.

An Associated Press survey showed that Western Europe's "economic miracle" was continuing — but at a much reduced pace.

There were warnings that booming wage and price increases could spell future trouble. In some nations there were even fears of an economic recession.

A minor wave of bankruptcies hit West Germany. In some countries businessmen were wondering where to get the money to finance their expansionist programs in 1963. Business profits were under pressure. Wages have been rising a good deal faster than output.

However, there was still full employment in most countries and a labor shortage in some. Foreign workers crossed borders to fill the gaps.

The report by countries:

—West Germany—

It amounted to a leveling off on a high plain, a process that was expected to continue in the coming year.

Several spectacular bankruptcies raised cautious signs. But workers dropped by companies in difficulty had no trouble finding jobs with other firms.

Wages rose and so did consumer spending.

—France—

As 1962 neared a close, both French and foreign economic observers agreed that France's economic situation was generally good, with prospects for the coming year equally encouraging.

The economic growth in the past year has been between 4½ and 5 per cent.

—Italy—

It was another good year for Italy. The nation continued to ride the greatest economic boom in its history.

But a prolonged summer drought adversely affected agriculture and industrial production, particularly in the metal industry, was hit by strikes and unrest.

—Britain—

The British economy, which lagged behind Europe's boom in 1961, improved slightly during 1962.

But unemployment continued to rise, reaching 544,451, or 2.4 per cent of the total number of employes.

Industrial production was more than 4 per cent higher in the second quarter than the first.

—Switzerland—

The Swiss economy continued to expand at a record rate throughout 1962. There was growing concern that a resulting wave of inflation may threaten the stability of the Swiss franc.

Total imports and exports rose to an all-time high.

—Scandinavia—

The Scandinavian countries maintained their high level of production in 1962, but a leveling off in the rate of growth of the national product was becoming clearly noticeable.

Major problems for Denmark, Norway and Finland were deficits in payments balance and rising prices resulting from internal inflationary pressures.

Sweden's situation is, by and large, good.

—Netherlands—

It is generally felt in the Netherlands that the economic boom of the past years is losing steam. Government leaders, business men and brokers are vigilant. Yet there is no recession scare.

—Belgium—

long and was stronger than had been predicted.

Evidence from more than a half dozen satellites now passing through the artificial radiation belts indicates the committee statement was wrong, Van Allen said. He predicted the most durable radiation would last not more than a few years and probably would not be detectable by next summer.

Van Allen, of the State University of Iowa, said the committee had relied almost solely on information obtained by the Telstar satellite lofted right after the blast and had ignored evidence from the Injun satellite.

He accused the committee of being hasty and "government-dominated." He said he felt "exceedingly intimidated" on the occasions he has been before the advisory committee, headed by Dr. Jerone B. Weisner.

Dr. James W. Warwick, radio astronomer of the high-altitude observatory at Boulder, Colo., said his studies made with radio measurements generally agreed with Van Allen's and were "inconsistent" with the government's report.

In New York, Dr. I. I. Rabi, Columbia University physicist and consultant-at-large to the committee, said both Van Allen and Warwick "know very well that when evidence is not complete, the results cannot be accurately predicted."

"There are times when practical action must be taken for various reasons," said Rabi. "I regret that Dr. Van Allen was not consulted beforehand, since he seems to be the final authority."

About 100 youngsters attended a Christmas party for members' children held by Midland Council 2005, Knights of Columbus, Sunday afternoon at the lyceum of Presentation Catholic Church.

Santa Claus gave each child a gift. There also was a luncheon and a program that includes movies. Tony DiMarzio was chairman.

Man Killed, 2 Sisters Are Injured In Fire

Firemen found the body of David Parker in the ruins several hours after the fire routed his parents and seven brothers and sisters from their sleep on the second floor. The victim, who did not live in the home, had been asleep in the living room.

Parker's sisters, Donna, 13 and Mildred, 18, suffered from smoke inhalation and were reported in fair condition in a hospital here.

Those watchfob-sized birth announcements will be taboo starting tomorrow, when the Post Office's new minimum - size regulation goes into effect, Postmaster Samuel W. Brown said today.

But the arrival cards will not be the only items affected. The new regulation will affect all mail, he said, explaining the purpose of the new ruling is to weed out miniature cards and letters which jam up the mechanics of mail-handling.

"They may be a joy to the people who receive them, but they are a headache to postal workers," Brown commented.

The new regulation has nothing to do with a boost in postal rates which will become effective Monday, Jan. 7, the postmaster continued.

That will boost first class mail from four to five cents; postal cards from three to four cents, and air mail from seven to eight cents. Adjustments also will be made in second and third class mail, he said.

The new minimum size regulation provides that all mailing pieces must be at least 3-x-4¼ inches, an increase of a quarter inch in both directions over the present minimums.

With the Post Office resorting more and more to automation, the smaller items clog up the machines, Brown said.

Small cards and letters will be stamped "not mailable" and those sent first class will be returned to the sender, the postmaster explained.

The new size was advertised two years ago to allow firms and envelope manufacturers time to eliminate stocks of under - sized pieces, he said.

Brown said he believes the time has come for a regulation on maximum size since overly large items, chiefly cards, also cause obstructions in cancelling machines.

Cleveland Police Chief Resigns At Mayor's Bid

CLEVELAND (AP) — Police Chief Frank W. Story resigned at the suggestion of Mayor Ralph S. Locher today after a brief meeting with the mayor.

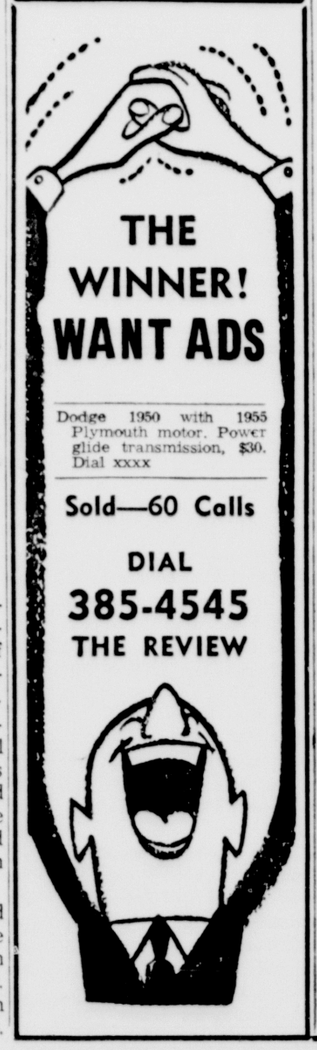
The resignation is effective at midnight tonight. The mayor had asked Story to consider retirement, but said the request was no reflection against the chief.

A successor was not chosen immediately.

As chief, Story is exempt from Cleveland's mandatory 70-year retirement age for members of the Police Department, but Locher said he felt the rule also should apply to the chief. Story will be 72 next month.

The mayor said that younger men in the department should be "given an opportunity to advance through the ranks."

Story, a veteran of 47 years on the police force, has served as chief since 1951.



Warnings Ahead For 1963

Economic Boom Slowed Up In Europe During '62

LONDON (AP) — The European economic boom slowed down perceptively in 1962. From several directions came warnings of economic troubles ahead for 1963.

An Associated Press survey showed that Western Europe's "economic miracle" was continuing — but at a much reduced pace.

There were warnings that booming wage and price increases could spell future trouble. In some nations there were even fears of an economic recession.

A minor wave of bankruptcies hit West Germany. In some countries businessmen were wondering where to get the money to finance their expansionist programs in 1963. Business profits were under pressure. Wages have been rising a good deal faster than output.

However, there was still full employment in most countries and a labor shortage in some. Foreign workers crossed borders to fill the gaps.

The report by countries:

—West Germany—

It amounted to a leveling off on a high plain, a process that was expected to continue in the coming year.

Several spectacular bankruptcies raised cautious signs. But workers dropped by companies in difficulty had no trouble finding jobs with other firms.

Wages rose and so did consumer spending.

—France—

As 1962 neared a close, both French and foreign economic observers agreed that France's economic situation was generally good, with prospects for the coming year equally encouraging.

The economic growth in the past year has been between 4½ and 5 per cent.

—Italy—

It was another good year for Italy. The nation continued to ride the greatest economic boom in its history.

But a prolonged summer drought adversely affected agriculture and industrial production, particularly in the metal industry, was hit by strikes and unrest.

Despite the disruptions industrial growth increased by 10 per cent over the peaks of the preceding years.

—Britain—

The British economy, which lagged behind Europe's boom in 1961, improved slightly during 1962.

But unemployment continued to rise, reaching 544,451, or 2.4 per cent of the total number of employes.

Industrial production was more than 4 per cent higher in the second quarter than the first.

—Switzerland—

The Swiss economy continued to expand at a record rate throughout 1962. There was growing concern that a resulting wave of inflation may threaten the stability of the Swiss franc.

Total imports and exports rose to an all-time high.

—Scandinavia—

The Scandinavian countries maintained their high level of production in 1962, but a leveling off in the rate of growth of the national product was becoming clearly noticeable.

Major problems for Denmark, Norway and Finland were deficits in payments balance and rising prices resulting from internal inflationary pressures.

Sweden's situation is, by and large, good.

—Netherlands—

It is generally felt in the Netherlands that the economic boom of the past years is losing steam. Government leaders, business men and brokers are vigilant. Yet there is no recession scare.

—Belgium—

long and was stronger than had been predicted.

Evidence from more than a half dozen satellites now passing through the artificial radiation belts indicates the committee statement was wrong, Van Allen said. He predicted the most durable radiation would last not more than a few years and probably would not be detectable by next summer.

Van Allen, of the State University of Iowa, said the committee had relied almost solely on information obtained by the Telstar satellite lofted right after the blast and had ignored evidence from the Injun satellite.

He accused the committee of being hasty and "government-dominated." He said he felt "exceedingly intimidated" on the occasions he has been before the advisory committee, headed by Dr. Jerone B. Weisner.

Dr. James W. Warwick, radio astronomer of the high-altitude observatory at Boulder, Colo., said his studies made with radio measurements generally agreed with Van Allen's and were "inconsistent" with the government's report.

In New York, Dr. I. I. Rabi, Columbia University physicist and consultant-at-large to the committee, said both Van Allen and Warwick "know very well that when evidence is not complete, the results cannot be accurately predicted."

"There are times when practical action must be taken for various reasons," said Rabi. "I regret that Dr. Van Allen was not consulted beforehand, since he seems to be the final authority."

Forcing The Hand Of Congress

Perhaps it's a simple case of having enough rope to hang themselves. Or it may be a more complex force causing labor unions to be forcing the hand of Congress.

The United States is not ready for an absence of law and organization responsibility that makes it feasible for handfuls of its citizens to trip up and waylay public convenience, public safety and economic necessity.

This is the reason the original Taft-Hartley Act, to slow down the headlong abuse of union power, was passed. It had became evident that the public had been left unprotected by the inordinate use and abuse of unionism.

Unionists were proving to be as reckless with their economic power as employers had been when there was no curb on their behavior. Congress had no choice but to reflect the opinion of the public that something needed to be done to create a better balance of power.

TO THIS DAY, Democratic politicians, obligated to the labor unions that underwrite their party's campaign efforts, complain about the Taft-Hartley Act while using it in behalf of public welfare. Some of them would welcome further legislation in this field, even while pretending to be against it while their labor union friends were watching.

When the 88th Congress meets in January it may have a chance to consider stiffer legislation to protect the public against strikes. It makes no sense that handfuls of people in strategic spots can make decisions that cripple entire areas and cause widespread hardship and economic dislocation—even to paralyzing defense efforts.

A government that can tie up platoons and brigades of legal talent for years while sniffing into management affairs for signs of trade restraint surely can be expected to protect its people against sand-bagging by unionists.

A government that can make business organizations go through protracted hearings and investigations before they can make a move that might have important repercussions and which actually controls transportation surely can take steps to avert arbitrary decisions to tie the public in knots.

When Arthur J. Goldberg was secretary of labor in President Kennedy's Cabinet, he warned that he would ask Congress for laws to halt strikes at missile plants and sites if unions called walkout.

Currently, strong hints are circulating in Washington of congressional impatience with strikes that cannot be averted or stopped once they've begun.

The Kennedy administration itself isn't likely to ask for new and stronger labor legislation.

But the 88th Congress might run out of patience if it returns to Washington next month in a transportation strike crisis.

A Resolution

With a new year just around the corner, may we suggest as a resolution for the people of East Liverpool the following: To think progressively at all times about matters pertaining to the community's overall advancement.

This is not to imply that there are no progressive thinkers already. There are many. But there are too many of the other type — those with a defeatist attitude who have a tendency to throw cold water on most proposals before they are given a chance to do the job for which they are intended.

Many problems loom on the horizon for 1963. They will require careful consideration. And most will have two sides. The task will be to determine which approach better serves the community and proceed from there.

With a united, progressive - thinking citizenry, East Liverpool should be able to accomplish much in the 12 months ahead.

Ah Yes, Old-Fashioned Winters

We finally found the fellow who used to make a pest of himself by wondering what became of old-fashioned winters. It had been a desperate search.

It seemed for a time he must have departed for some less rigorous climate, or perhaps that he'd died. But he was hiding; he was ashamed.

"I should have known better," he babbled when he was found huddled back of a gasping furnace. "I didn't really know what old-fashioned winters were like when I talked about them as if they were like old-fashioned virtues.

"All I had in mind was sleigh bells and through the woods to Grandmother's house. Snow drifts, frozen plumbing and exhaustion from shoveling snow were out of my line.

"I didn't even know about tire chains, keeping the highways open and heating bills. All it ever meant to me when I shot off my mouth about old - fashioned winters was Christmas card pictures, wassail bowls and Yule logs.

"I never had seen a real snow emergency. I didn't know how it feels to have your nostrils freeze shut when it's blowing a gale at five below zero. My ears never had been frost-bitten. As far as I knew, an old-fashioned winter was Bing Crosby crooning about a white Christmas. I know better now.

"That's why I am huddled behind this furnace. I am afraid to look out the window; it might be snowing again. I have been having nightmares about snow shovels. Just let me alone. Better yet, give me a call on Groundhog Day and we'll see how things shape up at that time. Until then, forget you ever remembered me."

We'll Never Really Know

When the Christmas and New Year weekend traffic tolls have been chalked up this year, they will pose a question that has been growing more pointed year by year.

Are the traffic tolls dismally high or spectacularly low in view of the circumstances? Should American motorists be praised or condemned for the way they operate their millions of cars and trucks?

We'll never really know. There is no way to find out. But it seems a safe guess that if American motorists hadn't made great strides toward maximum safety the traffic toll would be many times higher than it is.

If the fatality rate per 100,000 miles traveled had stayed as high as it was in the early '20s, it would not be safe to travel in an automobile.

If Americans drove cars with the same reckless abandon of the French, the Italians, or the Russians, their relatively safe highways would be turned into a shambles. Auto accidents would be the rule, instead of the exception.

One thing that still remains to be tried might turn relative safety into almost absolute safety—a complete shift of emphasis from unsafe drivers to safe drivers.

If the latter were praised, rewarded, publicized and made enviable, everybody would want to be like them.

If an "elite corps" of drivers who had gone, say, half a million miles without an accident could be formed and their cars marked with a special insignia, it would become not only prudent but popular to be a safe driver.

Cotton Corners

By Truman Twill

Dear Nephew: Happy New Year now and forever from your Aunt Effie and me. We'll be thinking of you and yours as we start a new calendar.

This is the saddest season of the year—and don't let the whooping and hollering fool you.

People are keeping up their courage.

You know the saying that the cold strengthens as daylight lengthens? Cold isn't the only thing that strengthens. Human courage begins to take on strength too as January gets under way.

This is what accounts for the resolutions. Most of us do not want to face the prospect of another year without doing something to make ourselves believe it can be an improvement. So we try to make changes.

If you could look inside the heads of your friends and see their list of proposed changes, you would know everything they had been crying into their pillows about. These are not stock reforms like cutting down on smoking but secret aspirations like remembering to count to 10 before saying things that might better have been left unsaid and resisting the temptation to announce publicly what seems to be wrong with your pet hammerhead.

This sort of thing is long since behind your aunt and me. I do not recall that I have thought of making a New Year resolution since the Coolidge administration and whatever resolutions I may have made then were soon forgotten.

Neither of us thinks he is perfect and certainly we are not deemed to be without flaw. It is just because we long ago reached the age at which you realize some things can't be changed.

Some batters can't be cured of the habit of lunging at outside pitches. Yet of all the batters who have this habit, only a few, like Lawrence Berra of the Yankees, can justify it. Berra has golfed many a hit by lunging at outside pitches.

People can't be cured of questionable habits. At best they only can train themselves to curb their tendency to lapse into the habit on the flimsiest excuse. But the habits remain.

Hence, resolutions.

In the year ahead, God willing, I expect to linger in bed on cold mornings, eat too much for lunch, pass harsh judgments on people whose characteristics annoy me, let myself be charmed by the sound of my own voice, shun a growing list of unpleasant realities closing in on me, eat too fast when the food tastes good and tell people who ask my advice what I think they want me to say.

Your Aunt Effie will keep right on being fussy about housekeeping and tolerant about everything else. She will continue to think I am a crazy old coot and she could have done better if she'd married someone handsomer.

But she also knows I will continue to think I couldn't have done better if I had searched the world and for this she appreciates me.

So we have nothing really to make resolutions about.

COTTON CORNERS — UNCLE GEORGE

'Twas The Week After Christmas–'

The President Makes A Phone Call

By Victor Riesel

President Kennedy personally picked up a hot line and a hotter issue early on the morning of the Sunday before Christmas. Interrupting his holiday weekend, he put in a most unusual telephone call to a man he did not know personally.

Victor Riesel

Shortly after 9 a. m. the phone rang in the East Side Manhattan home of dock walloper's union leader Thomas (Teddy) Gleason. A long-distance operator told Gleason, who is general organizer of some 81,000 longshoremen, that the President of the United States was calling. As the force behind the cargo slinging International Longshoremen's Association, Gleason has tackled all comers. But never the President.

The President then put his position in plain firm Irish talk, it can be reported here exclusively. He did not want the longshoremen to strike that afternoon — or any afternoon.

HE TALKED quickly of international tensions, the economic impact, and the perils of such a stoppage in some 100 Atlantic and Gulf ports.

Then President Kennedy explained that he would have to go to Congress with some solution for such a transportation strike, which then was about to paralyze some 200 ships already in the ports and scores of other vessels heading in.

He pointed out that should there be a strike and should it last to Jan. 9 when Congress reconvenes, it might be difficult to head off laws forbidding national transport stoppages and providing compulsory arbitration.

Dock workers' leader Gleason listened respectfully and then just as respectfully and firmly turned down the President.

The President was in a bind. He had put himself at the bargaining table, so to speak. But he could not head off the strike — estimated to cost the Port of New York alone some $7 million a week, and the strikers themselves, $10 million weekly in wages in all struck ports.

BUT WITHOUT Congress in session there was nothing the President of the United States could do. There had been an 80 day "cooling off" period under the Taft-Hartley law. The union was determined to resume its strike and no existing laws could stop it.

An angry Congress might just pass new anti-strike laws. Under Taft-Hartley the President must report to Congress and can propose a solution to any strike not ended by the cooling-off period. If the strike lasted the President would have to put forth a drastic solution.

If Congress acted on it, the administration would be held responsible by labor for putting over new legislation, probably a compulsory arbitration statute. Observers believe that's why the President telephoned—he does not want responsibility for such legislation.

MR. KENNEDY held off calling as long as he could. The importance of his private call can be seen in this play-by-play report on what was happening on the fourth floor of the Henry Hudson hotel, not too far from the West Side docks themselves.

At about 2 a.m. Sunday morning, Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz walked into Room 423, the union's temporary inner sanctum. He pulled a message from the President out of his pocket.

The message asked the union leaders to postpone their strike (for higher wages, shorter hours, a guaranteed work day and no cut in work "gangs" because of automation) for 90 days. During this period a three-man board would go fact finding and then report.

The union high council, chaired by the union president, portly extugboat Capt. Bill Bradley, rejected the proposal.

MR. WIRTZ, almost groggy from fatigue caused by shuttling between two major strike crises, the newspaper blackout and the waterfront feud, warned of congressional retaliation. There would be restrictive laws, he said, banning transport strikes.

Gleason told the President some seven hours later — the union does not want three strangers who know little of the waterfront to negotiate their contract. This would be surrender on the part of the union.

The ship owners accepted the President's proposal.

Not long after that there was a call to Palm Beach. The President was told of the stalemate when he awakened. Characteristically he reached for the phone.

He headed right into a hard labor front. This could well be a sign of things to come throughout 1963.

Today is Monday, Dec. 31, the 365th day of 1962. This is the last day of the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this day:

In 1600, Queen Elizabeth I granted a charter to the English East India Co.

In 1951, the Marshall Plan expired after the expenditures of nearly $12½ billion dollars to aid European recovery following World War II.

More Loss Than Gain

Tax Crackdown Could Backfire On U.S.

The U.S. Treasury may rue the day it ever mentioned the idea of keeping an "expense-account diary." For, judging by the talk that's being heard nowadays, the Treasury may actually lose hundreds of millions of dollars of revenue that it has been collecting heretofore, because the taxpayer now will avail himself of every tax deduction to which he is entitled.

David Lawrence

The revenue derived from the carelessness of the citizen in failing to claim legally specified deductions is probably far larger than the amounts that have been lost annually to the Treasury by improper expense-account claims.

Thus, government officials said this week that the Treasury is hoping to collect only about $100 million a year more in revenue than before by being strict on expense accounts. But if the citizens start claiming every legal deduction and start keeping records of the amounts they pay out in sales taxes alone, it could cost the Treasury many millions of dollars.

Some idea of the huge amounts involved can be inferred from the fact that, in 1960, the states collected $18 billion and the counties and cities $18.1 billion in taxes of all kinds. This totals $36.1 billion in taxes which are generally deductible on federal tax returns. Yet all the deductions claimed by individuals for these taxes added up to only $10.5 billion.

Now, there are no comparable figures as to what corporations or businesses claimed as deductions just for state and local tax payments, but their deductions for all taxes, including some federal and foreign taxes, added up to $19.2 billion in 1960.

THE DISCREPANCY, it would seem, could therefore amount to several billions of dollars which could be legally deducted by both individuals and businesses.

It also seems probable that, while businesses are claiming deductions for sales taxes, individuals are not. Many taxpayers are not aware that they have a right to deduct on their federal income taxes every penny of state or local sales tax that they pay at the stores in their communities. They are unaware also of the fact that state income taxes, real estate taxes, state taxes on gasoline and cigarettes, automobile licenses, municipal utility taxes and a number of other taxes are deductible.

Similarly, in the field of medical and dental expenses and interest on installment loans and other debts, the public seems unaware that tax deductions are permissible.

It isn't generally realized, either, that donations to all charitable and religious organizations—including what is put in the collection plate in church on Sunday — may be deducted in figuring the federal income tax. Few people know that losses due to theft or accident and any accidental damage to property—such as damage caused by storms, floods or freezes — are deductible items for the taxpayer to the extent that they are not covered entirely by insurance.

MANY CITIZENS do a good job of itemizing their deductions, but some persons take the easy way by lumping everything in a "standard deduction" just because they don't want to take the trouble to make itemized returns.

There is a trend, however, toward itemization on income tax returns. In 1960, approximately 46 per cent of the taxpayers listed their deductions, whereas in 1950 only 23 per cent did.

With the Treasury publicizing the idea of an expense - account diary to be kept in one's pocket, however, there will be a handy way every moment of the day to keep a record of legitimate expenses that are deductible on federal income taxes.

Maybe when all the tax deductions are added up, the Treasury will wish it had never made such a fuss about expense accounts and had centered its attention instead on ferreting out those who were really cheating. Checking expense-account items is likely to be a big headache and may easily cost the government more than it takes in as a result of the new check-up.

One thing is clear — millions of citizens do not know that, by reason of their carelessness in keeping track of deductible expenses, they are depriving themselves of tax deductions and are, in effect, donating big sums to the federal government.

How Heavy Is It?

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP) — The Tax burden has been called too heavy by everyone from President Kennedy down to the lowliest taxpayer. It will be up for debate soon in Congress, many state legislatures and numerous local governing bodies.

Just how heavy is it?

The amount and impact has been collected by the Tax Foundation, a private non - profit organization keeping an eye on such matters. In the biennial publication, Facts and Figures on Government Finance, out today, the foundation looks at the total burden, how it is spent, how the public debt grows.

The totals are pretty high — the taxes, the spending, the debt. You might find them a help in understanding the pros and cons as Congress discusses whether the federal tax rates can or can't be cut, and if so how much.

In fiscal 1962 the Tax Foundation puts total government tax receipts at $140 billion, up $3 billion in the year. This includes federal, state and local collections. In 1950, these governments collected $54.8 billion.

President Kennedy says that while much of this is necessary to provide for defense and civil services, it still takes quite a chunk out of the purchasing power of American consumers and business firms that could be used to speed up economic growth.

The three levels of government spent $174 billion in fiscal 1962, the Foundation estimates. This is $10 billion more than in 1961 and compares with $70.3 billion in 1950.

Those who contend government should spend still more now, if it wants business to get out its present sluggish growth, hold that much of the $174 billion went towards keeping many individuals at work and many firms producing more than they otherwise would.

The Foundation puts the gross debt of federal , state and local governments at the end of fiscal 1962 at $379 billion, up $15 billion in the year, and comparing with $289 billion in 1952.

The debt total, with state and local components estimated by the Foundation, shows the federal tab as $298 billion, the local debt as $59 billion, and the state as nearly $22 billion. (The federal since the end of fiscal 1962 has risen to more than $304 billion.)

Statisticians like to reduce these gross figures down to the average person or the average family. This can be done by dividing the totals by the latest figures or estimates on the number of persons or family units in the United States.

This means little, particularly in the matter of taxes, since few persons pay the average figures. But the foundation has done the arithmetic and here is how the tax burden, government spending and debt figures out for each of the family units now estimated to be in the United States.

The share of each family in total taxes collected in fiscal 1962 is put at $3,005, compared with $1,394 in 1950. Government spending comes to $3,739 for each family, against $1,800 in 1950. And each family's share of the debt of the three forms of government is $8,129, compared with $7,100 in 1952.

This isn't a happy thought for the new year. But a lot of other things are happier now than in 1950 — incomes, savings, total personal assets all higher. So, try to have a

Forcing The Hand Of Congress

Perhaps it's a simple case of having enough rope to hang themselves. Or it may be a more complex force causing labor unions to be forcing the hand of Congress.

The United States is not ready for an absence of law and organization responsibility that makes it feasible for handfuls of its citizens to trip up and waylay public convenience, public safety and economic necessity.

This is the reason the original Taft-Hartley Act, to slow down the headlong abuse of union power, was passed. It had became evident that the public had been left unprotected by the inordinate use and abuse of unionism.

Unionists were proving to be as reckless with their economic power as employers had been when there was no curb on their behavior. Congress had no choice but to reflect the opinion of the public that something needed to be done to create a better balance of power.

TO THIS DAY, Democratic politicians, obligated to the labor unions that underwrite their party's campaign efforts, complain about the Taft-Hartley Act while using it in behalf of public welfare. Some of them would welcome further legislation in this field, even while pretending to be against it while their labor union friends were watching.

When the 88th Congress meets in January it may have a chance to consider stiffer legislation to protect the public against strikes. It makes no sense that handfuls of people in strategic spots can make decisions that cripple entire areas and cause widespread hardship and economic dislocation—even to paralyzing defense efforts.

A government that can tie up platoons and brigades of legal talent for years while sniffing into management affairs for signs of trade restraint surely can be expected to protect its people against sand-bagging by unionists.

A government that can make business organizations go through protracted hearings and investigations before they can make a move that might have important repercussions and which actually controls transportation surely can take steps to avert arbitrary decisions to tie the public in knots.

When Arthur J. Goldberg was secretary of labor in President Kennedy's Cabinet, he warned that he would ask Congress for laws to halt strikes at missile plants and sites if unions called walkout.

Currently, strong hints are circulating in Washington of congressional impatience with strikes that cannot be averted or stopped once they've begun.

The Kennedy administration itself isn't likely to ask for new and stronger labor legislation.

But the 88th Congress might run out of patience if it returns to Washington next month in a transportation strike crisis.

A Resolution

With a new year just around the corner, may we suggest as a resolution for the people of East Liverpool the following: To think progressively at all times about matters pertaining to the community's overall advancement.

This is not to imply that there are no progressive thinkers already. There are many. But there are too many of the other type — those with a defeatist attitude who have a tendency to throw cold water on most proposals before they are given a chance to do the job for which they are intended.

Many problems loom on the horizon for 1963. They will require careful consideration. And most will have two sides. The task will be to determine which approach better serves the community and proceed from there.

With a united, progressive - thinking citizenry, East Liverpool should be able to accomplish much in the 12 months ahead.

Ah Yes, Old-Fashioned Winters

We finally found the fellow who used to make a pest of himself by wondering what became of old-fashioned winters. It had been a desperate search.

It seemed for a time he must have departed for some less rigorous climate, or perhaps that he'd died. But he was hiding; he was ashamed.

"I should have known better," he babbled when he was found huddled back of a gasping furnace. "I didn't really know what old-fashioned winters were like when I talked about them as if they were like old-fashioned virtues.

"All I had in mind was sleigh bells and through the woods to Grandmother's house. Snow drifts, frozen plumbing and exhaustion from shoveling snow were out of my line.

"I didn't even know about tire chains, keeping the highways open and heating bills. All it ever meant to me when I shot off my mouth about old - fashioned winters was Christmas card pictures, wassail bowls and Yule logs.

"I never had seen a real snow emergency. I didn't know how it feels to have your nostrils freeze shut when it's blowing a gale at five below zero. My ears never had been frost-bitten. As far as I knew, an old-fashioned winter was Bing Crosby crooning about a white Christmas. I know better now.

"That's why I am huddled behind this furnace. I am afraid to look out the window; it might be snowing again. I have been having nightmares about snow shovels. Just let me alone. Better yet, give me a call on Groundhog Day and we'll see how things shape up at that time. Until then, forget you ever remembered me."

We'll Never Really Know

When the Christmas and New Year weekend traffic tolls have been chalked up this year, they will pose a question that has been growing more pointed year by year.

Are the traffic tolls dismally high or spectacularly low in view of the circumstances? Should American motorists be praised or condemned for the way they operate their millions of cars and trucks?

We'll never really know. There is no way to find out. But it seems a safe guess that if American motorists hadn't made great strides toward maximum safety the traffic toll would be many times higher than it is.

If the fatality rate per 100,000 miles traveled had stayed as high as it was in the early '20s, it would not be safe to travel in an automobile.

If Americans drove cars with the same reckless abandon of the French, the Italians, or the Russians, their relatively safe highways would be turned into a shambles. Auto accidents would be the rule, instead of the exception.

One thing that still remains to be tried might turn relative safety into almost absolute safety—a complete shift of emphasis from unsafe drivers to safe drivers.

If the latter were praised, rewarded, publicized and made enviable, everybody would want to be like them.

If an "elite corps" of drivers who had gone, say, half a million miles without an accident could be formed and their cars marked with a special insignia, it would become not only prudent but popular to be a safe driver.

Cotton Corners

By Truman Twill

Dear Nephew: Happy New Year now and forever from your Aunt Effie and me. We'll be thinking of you and yours as we start a new calendar.

This is the saddest season of the year—and don't let the whooping and hollering fool you.

People are keeping up their courage.

You know the saying that the cold strengthens as daylight lengthens? Cold isn't the only thing that strengthens. Human courage begins to take on strength too as January gets under way.

This is what accounts for the resolutions. Most of us do not want to face the prospect of another year without doing something to make ourselves believe it can be an improvement. So we try to make changes.

If you could look inside the heads of your friends and see their list of proposed changes, you would know everything they had been crying into their pillows about. These are not stock reforms like cutting down on smoking but secret aspirations like remembering to count to 10 before saying things that might better have been left unsaid and resisting the temptation to announce publicly what seems to be wrong with your pet hammerhead.

This sort of thing is long since behind your aunt and me. I do not recall that I have thought of making a New Year resolution since the Coolidge administration and whatever resolutions I may have made then were soon forgotten.

Neither of us thinks he is perfect and certainly we are not deemed to be without flaw. It is just because we long ago reached the age at which you realize some things can't be changed.

Some batters can't be cured of the habit of lunging at outside pitches. Yet of all the batters who have this habit, only a few, like Lawrence Berra of the Yankees, can justify it. Berra has golfed many a hit by lunging at outside pitches.

People can't be cured of questionable habits. At best they only can train themselves to curb their tendency to lapse into the habit on the flimsiest excuse. But the habits remain.

Hence, resolutions.

In the year ahead, God willing, I expect to linger in bed on cold mornings, eat too much for lunch, pass harsh judgments on people whose characteristics annoy me, let myself be charmed by the sound of my own voice, shun a growing list of unpleasant realities closing in on me, eat too fast when the food tastes good and tell people who ask my advice what I think they want me to say.

Your Aunt Effie will keep right on being fussy about housekeeping and tolerant about everything else. She will continue to think I am a crazy old coot and she could have done better if she'd married someone handsomer.

But she also knows I will continue to think I couldn't have done better if I had searched the world and for this she appreciates me.

So we have nothing really to make resolutions about.

COTTON CORNERS UNCLE GEORGE

'Twas The Week After Christmas-'

The President Makes A Phone Call

By Victor Riesel

President Kennedy personally picked up a hot line and a hotter issue early on the morning of the Sunday before Christmas. Interrupting his holiday weekend, he put in a most unusual telephone call to a man he did not know personally.

Victor Riesel

Shortly after 9 a. m. the phone rang in the East Side Manhattan home of dock walloper's union leader Thomas (Teddy) Gleason. A long-distance operator told Gleason, who is general organizer of some 81,000 longshoremen, that the President of the United States was calling. As the force behind the cargo slinging International Longshoremen's Association, Gleason has tackled all comers. But never the President.

The President then put his position in plain firm Irish talk, it can be reported here exclusively. He did not want the longshoremen to strike that afternoon — or any afternoon.

HE TALKED quickly of international tensions, the economic impact, and the perils of such a stoppage in some 100 Atlantic and Gulf ports.

Then President Kennedy explained that he would have to go to Congress with some solution for such a transportation strike, which then was about to paralyze some 200 ships already in the ports and scores of other vessels heading in.

He pointed out that should there be a strike and should it last to Jan. 9 when Congress reconvenes, it might be difficult to head off laws forbidding national transport stoppages and providing compulsory arbitration.

Dock workers' leader Gleason listened respectfully and then just as respectfully and firmly turned down the President.

The President was in a bind. He had put himself at the bargaining table, so to speak. But he could not head off the strike — estimated to cost the Port of New York alone some $7 million a week, and the strikers themselves, $10 million weekly in wages in all struck ports.

BUT WITHOUT Congress in session there was nothing the President of the United States could do. There had been an 80 day "cooling off" period under the Taft-Hartley law. The union was determined to resume its strike and no existing laws could stop it.

An angry Congress might just pass new anti-strike laws. Under Taft-Hartley the President must report to Congress and can propose a solution to any strike not ended by the cooling-off period. If the strike lasted the President would have to put forth a drastic solution.

If Congress acted on it, the administration would be held responsible by labor for putting over new legislation, probably a compulsory arbitration statute. Observers believe that's why the President telephoned—he does not want responsibility for such legislation.

MR. KENNEDY held off calling as long as he could. The importance of his private call can be seen in this play-by-play report on what was happening on the fourth floor of the Henry Hudson hotel, not too far from the West Side docks themselves.

At about 2 a.m. Sunday morning, Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz walked into Room 423, the union's temporary inner sanctum. He pulled a message from the President out of his pocket.

The message asked the union leaders to postpone their strike (for higher wages, shorter hours, a guaranteed work day and no cut in work "gangs" because of automation) for 90 days. During this period a three-man board would go fact finding and then report.

The union high council, chaired by the union president, portly ex-tugboat Capt. Bill Bradley, rejected the proposal.

MR. WIRTZ, almost groggy from fatigue caused by shuttling between two major strike crises, the newspaper blackout and the waterfront feud, warned of congressional retaliation. There would be restrictive laws, he said, banning transport strikes.

Gleason told the President some seven hours later — the union does not want three strangers who know little of the waterfront to negotiate their contract. This would be surrender on the part of the union.

The ship owners accepted the President's proposal.

Not long after that there was a call to Palm Beach. The President was told of the stalemate when he awakened. Characteristically he reached for the phone.

He headed right into a hard labor front. This could well be a sign of things to come throughout 1963.

More Loss Than Gain

Tax Crackdown Could Backfire On U.S.

The U.S. Treasury may rue the day it ever mentioned the idea of keeping an "expense-account diary." For, judging by the talk that's being heard nowadays, the Treasury may actually lose hundreds of millions of dollars of revenue that it has been collecting heretofore, because the taxpayer now will avail himself of every tax deduction to which he is entitled.

David Lawrence

The revenue derived from the carelessness of the citizen in failing to claim legally specified deductions is probably far larger than the amounts that have been lost annually to the Treasury by improper expense-account claims.

Thus, government officials said this week that the Treasury is hoping to collect only about $100 million a year more in revenue than before by being strict on expense accounts. But if the citizens start claiming every legal deduction and start keeping records of the amounts they pay out in sales taxes alone, it could cost the Treasury many millions of dollars.

Some idea of the huge amounts involved can be inferred from the fact that, in 1960, the states collected $18 billion and the counties and cities $18.1 billion in taxes of all kinds. This totals $36.1 billion in taxes which are generally deductible on federal tax returns. Yet all the deductions claimed by individuals for these taxes added up to only $10.5 billion.

Now, there are no comparable figures as to what corporations or businesses claimed as deductions just for state and local tax payments, but their deductions for all taxes, including some federal and foreign taxes, added up to $19.2 billion in 1960.

THE DISCREPANCY, it would seem, could therefore amount to several billions of dollars which could be legally deducted by both individuals and businesses.

It also seems probable that, while businesses are claiming deductions for sales taxes, individuals are not. Many taxpayers are not aware that they have a right to deduct on their federal income taxes every penny of state or local sales tax that they pay at the stores in their communities. They are unaware also of the fact that state income taxes, real estate taxes, state taxes on gasoline and cigarettes, automobile licenses, municipal utility taxes and a number of other taxes are deductible.

Similarly, in the field of medical and dental expenses and interest on installment loans and other debts, the public seems unaware that tax deductions are permissible.

It isn't generally realized, either, that donations to all charitable and religious organizations—including what is put in the collection plate in church on Sunday — may be deducted in figuring the federal income tax. Few people know that losses due to theft or accident and any accidental damage to property—such as damage caused by storms, floods or freezes — are deductible items for the taxpayer to the extent that they are not covered entirely by insurance.

MANY CITIZENS do a good job of itemizing their deductions, but some persons take the easy way by lumping everything in a "standard deduction" just because they don't want to take the trouble to make itemized returns.

There is a trend, however, toward itemization on income tax returns. In 1960, approximately 46 per cent of the taxpayers listed their deductions, whereas in 1950 only 23 per cent did.

With the Treasury publicizing the idea of an expense - account diary to be kept in one's pocket, however, there will be a handy way every moment of the day to keep a record of legitimate expenses that are deductible on federal income taxes.

Maybe when all the tax deductions are added up, the Treasury will wish it had never made such a fuss about expense accounts and had centered its attention instead on ferreting out those who were really cheating. Checking expense-account items is likely to be a big headache and may easily cost the government more than it takes in as a result of the new check-up.

One thing is clear — millions of citizens do not know that, by reason of their carelessness in keeping track of deductible expenses, they are depriving themselves of tax deductions and are, in effect, donating big sums to the federal government.

How Heavy Is It?

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP) — The Tax burden has been called too heavy by everyone from President Kennedy down to the lowliest taxpayer. It will be up for debate soon in Congress, many state legislatures and numerous local governing bodies.

Just how heavy is it?

The amount and impact has been collected by the Tax Foundation, a private non - profit organization keeping an eye on such matters. In the biennial publication, Facts and Figures on Government Finance, out today, the foundation looks at the total burden, how it is spent, how the public debt grows.

The totals are pretty high — the taxes, the spending, the debt. You might find them a help in understanding the pros and cons as Congress discusses whether the federal tax rates can or can't be cut, and if so how much.

In fiscal 1962 the Tax Foundation puts total government tax receipts at $140 billion, up $3 billion in the year. This includes federal, state and local collections. In 1950, these governments collected $54.8 billion.

President Kennedy says that while much of this is necessary to provide for defense and civil services, it still takes quite a chunk out of the purchasing power of American consumers and business firms that could be used to speed up economic growth.

The three levels of government spent $174 billion in fiscal 1962, the Foundation estimates. This is $10 billion more than in 1961 and compares with $70.3 billion in 1950.

Those who contend government should spend still more now, if it wants business to get out its present sluggish growth, hold that much of the $174 billion went towards keeping many individuals at work and many firms producing more than they otherwise would.

The Foundation puts the gross debt of federal , state and local governments at the end of fiscal 1962 at $379 billion, up $15 billion in the year, and comparing with $289 billion in 1952.

The debt total, with state and local components estimated by the Foundation, shows the federal tab as $298 billion, the local debt as $59 billion, and the state as nearly $22 billion. (The federal since the end of fiscal 1962 has risen to more than $304 billion.)

Statisticians like to reduce these gross figures down to the average person or the average family. This can be done by dividing the totals by the latest figures or estimates on the number of persons or family units in the United States.

This means little, particularly in the matter of taxes, since few persons pay the average figures. But the foundation has done the arithmetic and here is how the tax burden, government spending and debt figures out for each of the family units now estimated to be in the United States.

The share of each family in total taxes collected in fiscal 1962 is put at $3,005, compared with $1,394 in 1950. Government spending comes to $3,739 for each family, against $1,800 in 1950. And each family's share of the debt of the three forms of government is $8,129, compared with $7,100 in 1952.

This isn't a happy thought for the new year. But a lot of other things are happier now than in 1950 — incomes, savings, total personal assets all higher. So, try to have a

Strikes Against 11 Dailies

New York, Cleveland Due New Year Without Paper

NEW YORK (AP)—Two of the nation's biggest cities face the New Year without their major newspapers.

New York has had a newspaper blackout for 24 days and Cleveland for 32 as the result of strikes which have caused a total of 11 dailies to shut down.

There was no sign of a quick end to either dispute. No negotiations are scheduled.

In New York, the City Convention and Visitors Bureau blamed the newspaper shutdown for a drop of 10 to 15 per cent in the normal volume of restaurant, hotel, entertainment and other tourist business.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, who tried at one point to mediate the New York dispute, has said the shutdown of nine major dailies could last into March.

In Cleveland, where the city's only two dailies—the morning Plain Dealer and the afternoon Press News — have been knocked out of operation, an ominous note was sounded by a spokesman for striking Teamsters Local 473 (Ind.)

Anthony DePalma the union's business agent, said, "There'll be no more talking with publishers from now on." He did not elaborate.

A spokesman for the publishers said they would be willing to meet again after the New Year's holiday. On Saturday they recessed until Wednesday their talks with the Cleveland Newspaper Guild (AFL-CIO), which also is on strike.

The Cleveland Guild negotiations are deadlocked over a union security issue. The Teamsters have said working conditions are their chief issue, but they have not spelled out details.

In New York, where a printers' local struck four of the major dailies on Dec. 8—followed by a voluntary shutdown of five other papers—the main issue appears to be wages.

The AFL-CIO International Typographical Union has asked for an $18.45 weekly wage increase over a two-year period.

The New York Publishers Association has offered a $9.20 weekly package over the same time period, and says the union's wage demands, plus fringe benefits, would total $38 a week per man.

The printers' base pay averaged $141 a week for day-shift work before the strike.

Some 20,000 persons have been idled by the shutdown here, and another 3,000 in Cleveland.

The union spokesman said the company offer was 12 cents for the first year and 10 cents the second year, but it did not mention holidays or vacations.

Alexander Chopin, chief negotiator for the New York Shipping Association which represents 145 steamship and stevedoring companies, said the 50-cent package suggested by the union would cost $40 million a year.

Pre-strike wages averaged $3.02 an hour.

The strike on the East and Gulf coasts began a week ago Sunday at the expiration of an 80-day cooling-off period under the Taft-Hartley Act. An injunction had halted a four-day strike by the union last October.

Strikes Against 11 Dailies

New York, Cleveland Due New Year Without Paper

NEW YORK (AP)—Two of the nation's biggest cities face the New Year without their major newspapers.

New York has had a newspaper blackout for 24 days and Cleveland for 32 as the result of strikes which have caused a total of 11 dailies to shut down.

There was no sign of a quick end to either dispute. No negotiations are scheduled.

In New York, the City Convention and Visitors Bureau blamed the newspaper shutdown for a drop of 10 to 15 per cent in the normal volume of restaurant, hotel, entertainment and other tourist business.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, who tried at one point to mediate the New York dispute, has said the shutdown of nine major dailies could last into March.

In Cleveland, where the city's only two dailies—the morning Plain Dealer and the afternoon Press News — have been knocked out of operation, an ominous note was sounded by a spokesman for striking Teamsters Local 473 (Ind.)

Anthony DePalma the union's business agent, said, "There'll be no more talking with publishers from now on." He did not elaborate.

A spokesman for the publishers said they would be willing to meet again after the New Year's holiday. On Saturday they recessed until Wednesday their talks with the Cleveland Newspaper Guild (AFL-CIO), which also is on strike.

The Cleveland Guild negotiations are deadlocked over a union security issue. The Teamsters have said working conditions are their chief issue, but they have not spelled out details.

In New York, where a printers' local struck four of the major dailies on Dec. 8—followed by a voluntary shutdown of five other papers—the main issue appears to be wages.

The AFL-CIO International Typographical Union has asked for an $18.45 weekly wage increase over a two-year period.

The New York Publishers Association has offered a $9.20 weekly package over the same time period, and says the union's wage demands, plus fringe benefits, would total $38 a week per man.

The printers' base pay averaged $141 a week for day-shift work before the strike.

Some 20,000 persons have been idled by the shutdown here, and another 3,000 in Cleveland.

14 cents in pension benefits and 10 cents in clinic benefits; four paid holidays in addition to the previous eight and four weeks' vacation after 10 years of service.

The union spokesman said the company offer was 12 cents for the first year and 10 cents the second year, but it did not mention holidays or vacations.

Alexander Chopin, chief negotiator for the New York Shipping Association which represents 145 steamship and stevedoring companies, said the 50-cent package suggested by the union would cost $40 million a year.

Pre-strike wages averaged $3.02 an hour.

The strike on the East and Gulf coasts began a week ago Sunday at the expiration of an 80-day cooling-off period under the Taft-Hartley Act. An injunction had halted a four-day strike by the union last October.

Entrance Hall Idea Offered

PORTLAND, Ore. — Decorating an entrance hall can sometimes be a ticklish problem. So often "decorating" creates a stiff, unyielding effect when the idea was to imbue this area with warm cordiality. And, frequently, attempts to be casual end in a closet-like look.

Many families have had wonderful results using an indoor - outdoor theme for the foyer. They've found this creates a good transition from yard to house and an informality which is at once hospitable and warm.

The indoor-outdoor theme is an easy one to work out. It could begin with the simple repetition of the house exterior siding as wall paneling for the entryway. Any of the siding patterns can be used.

For example, resawn western red cedar in the popular tongue-and-grove pattern would be striking as paneling for interior walls. In fact, resawn cedar siding often appears on the walls of sophisticated living rooms. Bevel, drop, board-and-batten, or channel cedar siding would work equally well, whether rough or smooth surfaced.

It's a good rule of thumb to select the same finish for the foyer walls as is used for the siding. A possible exception would be the repetition of a distinctive color which doesn't jibe with the home's interior color scheme. In that case, the siding still can be used for entry walls, but with a natural wood stain, or a clear or weathered finish.

To consolidate the wedding of indoors and outdoors, wide areas of glass may be used to show off the continuation of siding from outside in. This can be accomplished without destroying the privacy of the foyer if the glass is installed as a clerestory above the front door and adjoining cloak closet.

Other ways to complete the indoor-outdoor theme would include the use of slate or brick for the foyer floor, an indoor garden arranged either in a planter box or as a "bed" at floor level. If you choose interesting lighting fixtures for the front walk, perhaps coachmen's laterns, these, too, could be repeated indoors.

ENTRANCE HALL makes a smooth transition between yard and house with indoor-outdoor design used here. Rough-sawn, weathered western red cedar siding comes indoors as sophisticated paneling, while cloak closet juts outside to form a recess for door. Clerestory windows reveal greenery perched atop the cloak closet giving garden atmosphere to entry.

Ohio 5-Day Forecast

NORTHERN OHIO—Temperatures will average four to eight degrees below normal. Normal high 35, normal low 20. Moderating temperatures Tuesday through Thursday, colder end of week. A few snow flurries likely about mid-week, again at end of week, averaging one-tenth to two-tenths of an inch.

SOUTHERN AND CENTRAL OHIO—Temperatures will average about five degrees below normal. Normal high 37-46, normal low 22-27. Moderating temperatures Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, colder Friday. Snow flurries Thursday or Friday, averaging less than two-tenths of an inch.

Heating Problems Aired

NEW YORK — Eighty per cent of today's homes are plagued by failures in the heating system, according to a recent survey conducted by a national association of heating engineers.

The survey reveals that four out of five home owners complain of hot and cold spots, drafty areas, high fuel bills and noisy heating system operation. All these add up to inefficient heating.

There are a host of reasons why heating systems operate below par, but no reason why every home owner shouldn't be able to enjoy the comfort and pleasures of an efficient heating system, says the national Better Heating-Cooling Council.

MANY HOMES are equipped with heating plants either too small or too large. As a result, the house is either underheated or overheated.

Also, a heating system that is not installed properly, with little pre-planning and very little balancing after the system has been in use, will result in a score of heating deficiencies. Over zealous cost - cutting is the culprit here.

Other homes are equipped with inferior heating apparatus. Again, the home owner will have higher fuel costs and frequent breakdowns.

Most of these problems can be avoided with a well - designed heating system such as a modern hydronic (forced circulation hot water) heating system, according to the Council. The Council says the traditional high quality of hydronic components makes hydronic heating the most efficient and economical system available today.

Unfortunately, few home owners have much to say about the choice of heating system and components used, or the workmanship employed, because all the work has been done when they move into their new home. They must rely on the reputation and integrity of their builder.

HOWEVER, AS people recognize the importance of a properly heated house, they are demanding — and getting — hydronic systems installed in their homes, according to the Council.

Housewife delegates at the widely - publicized Women's Housing Congresses agreed that they didn't want a home heating system that caused extra housework, discomfort, worry, cost or annoyance, or which might endanger the health of their families.

What the housewives wanted and insisted upon in a heating system, the Council notes, is cleanliness, protection of family comfort and health, carefree operation, freedom from noise and ease in home decorating. Seventy-five per cent of the housewife delegates cited these benefits in hydronics and stated that they preferred hydronics, the Council reports.

Marble's Economical For Fireplace Facing

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

According to the dealers, a large percentage of the building material sold today is bought by home owners who are doing their own jobs of alterations, additions and improvements.

While the average man will try his hand at almost any kind of woodworking, he usually hesitates to make any changes in the fireplace. As a matter of fact, some people paint the brickwork and others want to remove the paint applied by the former owners who had a different idea of interior decorating.

Before anyone does anything about a plain brick fireplace facing, he should look into the effect he would get if the brick were refaced with the right kind of marble.

The actual mechanics of doing the job are extremely simple. All one need do is to take some close measurements, since any marble works will cut and polish the marble of whatever color you select.

Three slabs are needed; one piece to go right across under the mantel and down to the top edge of the fireplace opening and two pieces to set beneath it on either side. The marble is fastened to the brickwork by spotting it on the back with several lumps of piaster of paris and pressing it strongly into place. The two vertical slabs are, of course, positioned and set prior to fitting the top section.

The selection of the color of the marble is most important and should be decided upon only after the entire color scheme of the room has been established.

You never see a marble fireplace facing in the small or medium-sized house, because the average owner has no idea how economically it may be obtained.

Employes Of Hotels Vote To Accept Pact

CINCINNATI (AP) — Voters representing about 2,500 employes of six major Cincinnati hotels have voted 673-165 to accept a proposed new contract.

A spokesman for the Cincinnati Hotel Employes Council said Sunday's vote cleared the way to final clearance by unions with only a few hotel workers — electricians, carpenters, painters, barbers and musicians. No details were disclosed.

Tips Offered On Wallpaper

There is an ever-increasing trend toward the purchase of shell houses, which the builder completes with roof, exterior finish, doors and windows.

The purchaser finishes the interior, installs the plumbing and heating and does the decorating. As a general practice, the owner uses sheetrock or one of the well-known wallboards in finishing off the interior walls, but nine times out of ten he does not have sufficient knowledge to enable him to use the board economically or to cut the large sheets so that they offer a symmetrical surface.

Most board comes in four - by-eight sheets. The approved way to save material is to make a rough sketch of the various walls to be sheated and to ascertain just how these sheets can be cut to the best advantage.

This procedure will result in tremendous savings as it will avoid ending up with half-sheets and strips for which there is no use save scrap.

Using wallboard of any kind is quite an art. It is frequently desirable to start operations at a window or door opening and then work away from the center position to the ends of the room. The measurements taken before starting will show whether or not this will save wasting large areas of a sheet.

Masking the joints in wallboard is a very important matter. Usually there are instructions available by the manufacturers telling how the joints or seams can be filled or taped so that the wall will present a smooth, unbroken surface.

The amateur who attempts this kind of work should remember that wallpaper is usually more satisfactory over a board wall than paint. The design of the paper hides the joints between panels better than the flat one-color paint job.

All graduating medical students are given the Hippocratic Oath, which is an oath of allegiance to ethical standards.

Bringing Up A Family

Tyrannous Tot Needs Care And Love

A grandmother who has the sole care of a grandson, three, writes from Texas. "He has fits of crying that often go on for hours and are about the most senseless things, such as closing the house up and turning off the television at bed time. "If I warm his milk, he wants it cold; if I give it to him cold, he wants it warm. He doesn't want me to eat, takes my napkin away and puts it back in the drawer. If he's playing with a toy and it fails to function as it should, he has a crying tantrum. "I do not spank him in such instances because I wonder if illness causes him to act this way.

Dr. Garry Meyers

"I AM A DISABLED person in a wheelchair and have had the care of him since he was five days old because his mother is incompetent and irresponsible. Can the child be frustrated because of these facts?

"He is very intelligent, far ahead of his years, large and robust for his age, but every few weeks runs a temperature of 102 or 103.

"He has one of the best baby doctors in town, but he hasn't contributed much that's helpful in the emotional problem, nor has he determined why the child should frequently run a temperature."

FIRST, HAVE THIS child placed under observation at a hospital to ascertain the cause of his erratic temperature. While his illness could intensify his emotional outbursts and stubbornness, there are other obvious factors.

Right you are not to spank that child for his tantrums, unless he attacks persons or deliberately destroys property. Be sure he doesn't get what he cries for and that you evince no concern over his rages.

When he makes a choice as for warm milk, let him have that or nothing. Don't reward his fickleness.

Keep the TV silent most of the time and rule out programs of violence. Perhaps the easiest and finest thing you can do for the lad is to read to him. As he builds with blocks and creates otherwise with his playthings where you can see him, express great enthusiasm over his creations.

HE MAY WANT you, if you are able, to write down some of the yarns coming out of his head and read them back to him. Wonderful if he will draw and color pictures, cut out pictures from old newspapers and magazines and paste them on a cardboard sheet or in a scrapbook.

Perhaps you could provide him with some good music records he could operate himself.

By The Associated Press

Ohio moved into the second half of the 4-day New Year's weekend with an enviable traffic record.

Despite icy roads and bad weather, Ohio's traffic death toll was a relatively low seven — below last year's toll, last week's Christmas toll and the predicted 26 deaths.

After the first 54 hours of last week's toll, nine persons had been killed on Ohio highways. A year ago, during a 3-day holiday, 11 were killed in traffic mishaps.

Besides the highway deaths, one other fatality has been reported to the Associated Press — an 82-year-old Columbus woman who died in a Cleveland fire.

Last year's over-all toll was 24. The fatalities:

Friday Night

Saturday

Estil Vanhoose, 55, Ashland, Ky., in a one-car accident at Coal Grove, near Ironton in Lawrence County.

Mrs. Lillie Long, 82, Columbus, in a fire at a Cleveland funeral home operated by her son.

Carl Mastnick, 44, Massillon, struck by a car on U.S. 62 about three miles south of Canton.

Sunday

Mrs. Eugene Simpson, 41, New Madison, in a one-car crash on Ohio 121 about htree miles south of Greenville.

County Sales Tax Ahead For Year

With only a week remaining in the first half of the fiscal year, sales tax receipts in Columbiana County are slightly ahead of the 1961 totals, State Treasurer Joseph T. Ferguson said today in Columbus.

Ferguson reported $844,999 from prepaid tax receipts and advance payments and from taxes on motor vehicle sales so far this year, compared to $828,917 for the same period in 1961.

Collections on motor vehicles are running $52,925 ahead of the comparable period last year to make up a lag of $36,843 in collections of prepaid tax receipts and advance payments, the treasurer reported.

Collections for the week ending Dec. 22 totaled $32,388 to boost the total to $844,999 so far compared to collections of $54,544 for the corresponding week and $828,917 for the same first half period in 1961, Ferguson's report showed.

Concerning Extension Service

Repercussions Expected On Farm Chief's Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) —A decision by Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman to bring the Extension Service under the same department tent with the politically oriented farm aid programs is expected to bring repercussions in Congress and in some farm groups.

The Extension Service, the educational arm of the department, has been placed under direct supervision of Asst. Secretary John P. Duncan Jr., who also has charge of the controversial crop control, price support, surplus management and other farm aid programs. Duncan also has under his supervision the department's broad marketing activities.

In the past, the Extension Service has been separated in the department organization from the so-called economic action programs.

The thing that may set off outside criticism is the fact that Duncan said the Extension Service will be used to help educate individual farmers on the various farm control, price support and related programs.

Heretofore, the Extension Service has generally limited its educational work to passing along to farmers results of agricultural research.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Council of Farmer Cooperatives will hold its annual meeting at Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 7-9.

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Agriculture Department report today will show how much this year's farm product prices gained over 1961.

To be issued in mid-afternoon, the report will give the level of prices farmers received this month compared with a month ago and a year ago. In November, farm prices were running slightly more than 2 per cent above year earlier levels and nearly 3 per cent above two years earlier.

But much of the gain to November had been offset by increases in prices farmers paid for goods and services used in production and family living. These latter prices were running 1.6 per cent higher in November than at the end of 1961.

Farm prices were averaging 80 per cent of the parity price goal of federal farm programs late this year, compared with 79 per cent a year earlier.

Drunk Driver Faces Embezzlement Count

BELLEFONTAINE, Ohio (AP) — A man arrested here for drunken driving was expected to be taken to Fort Wayne, Ind., today to face charges of embezzling $25,000 from a supermarket.

James Esterline, 41, of Fort Wayne was arrested late Saturday night. Sunday officers said Esterline told them he was the man being sought in Fort Wayne.

Authorities accused Esterline of depositing less money in the bank than the grocery he managed was taking in. An audit showed $25,000 missing.

Officers quoted the man as saying he had been driving aimlessly since Friday, "trying to get away from it." He did not have an unusual amount of money when arrested.

City Serviceman Escapes Injury As 2 Cars Crash

An East Liverpool serviceman hitch-hiking back to his Army post in New Jersey escaped unhurt Saturday when two cars collided in a heavy snowstorm on the Pennsylvania Turnpike near Bedford.

He is William Rager, grandson of Mrs. Cora Gill, 969 Church St., who was a passenger in a car driven by Miss Phyllis Dietrich of Worthington, Ohio.

The Ohio car skidded across the medial strip 10 miles east of Bedford and hit an oncoming car driven by Charles Conway of Pittsburgh, a serviceman stationed near Chelsea, Mass., according to Pennsylvania State Police.

Conway and Miss Dietrich were detained at Bedford Memorial Hospital. Police said two passengers in Conway's car were hurt —Vern Stevens of Columbus and Robert Dovich of Lowellville. Miss Dietrich is in "fair" condition with fractures of the skull, arm and pelvis and a ruptured bladder.

Rager had been home on a three - day pass from Ft. Monmouth, N. J. He started back Saturday morning, hitch-hiking from the Youngstown Interchange on the Ohio Turnpike. He notified his grandmother Sunday that examination at an Army hospital disclosed he was unhurt.

Pharmacist Fooled By Call—Wasn't FBI

"This is an agent of the FBI. We have information that your store is going to be held up in a few minutes. We have the place under surveillance and we will arrest the man as soon as he comes out. Co-operate with him in every way so we can get evidence."

A shabbily dressed man walked in a few minutes later and announced that he was staging a holdup.

He took $50 and some narcotics and calmly walked out.

Unemployed Claims Rise

Continuing to spiral upward, 2,158 claims for jobless benefits were processed this month in East Liverpool, the Ohio State Employment Service office reported.

That's an increase of 257 over November's total of 1,901, Harry L. Dinsmore, manager of the Washington St., office said.

The office handled 445 new claims this month compared to 344 in November and 1,713 continuing claims against 1,557, Dinsmore said.

The office received 1,003 applications for work compared to 1,039 in November and 26 placements were recorded, including two handicapped persons, he continued. There were 53 placements in November, including one handicapped.

Claims this week totaled 670, a boost of 130 over the week ending Dec. 22, Dinsmore said. They included 183 new and 487 continuing.

West Virginia Traffic, Fire Take 5 Lives

By The Associated Press

West Virginia counted at least five deaths due to traffic accidents and a fire as the extended New Year's holiday entered its final hours today.

Two Jackson County brothers died in the fire which swept their small frame house at Ripley late last night.

Three other persons died in a series of highway mishaps earlier in the day.

The traffic fatalities increased the 1962 toll to 424 compared to 372 a year ago, State Police records showed.

The greeting of 1962 a year ago was blamed for six accidental deaths, including three highway accidents.

Sunday's victims included:

Floyd Bayer, about 45, and Claude Bayer, about 40, who were asphyxiated in the Ripley blaze. Fire Chief John Landfried said one body was found in the dining room of the house and the other in the bathroom. The fire apparently started in a bedroom. The cause was not immediately determined.

John P. Luzader, 47, of Clarksburg, who died when his car rammed into a bridge on U.S. 19 between Weston and Jane Lew.

Joe Cassino Jr., 53, of Morgantown, a State Road Commission employe who was injured fatally when an SRC highlift he was driving from Morgantown to Pentress went off W. Va. 7 about eight miles west of Morgantown and overturned on him.

Autos Hit In Chester; $800 Loss Reported

A total of $800 damage to two autos was reported by Chester police in an accident Saturday morning, blamed on icy street conditions.

Patrolman Frank Fetty reported a 1959 sedan driven by Mrs. Doris Mae Sayre of Chester R. D. 1 skidded on Lawrenceville Rd. Saturday at 7:30 a.m. and hit a 1962 compact driven by Mrs. Ryda Brown, also of Chester R. D. 1. No one was cited.

Illicit Drug Traffic To Be Investigated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators are reported assembling evidence for a massive examination of the illicit drug traffic touching "more or less every major city in the United States."

The Senate Investigations subcommittee has worked with Interpol, the international police agency, and various foreign governments in preparing for the investigation.

Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark. plans an early meeting of the subcommittee to request an official go-ahead for the start of hearings, and to chart a tentative schedule for other major investigations in the works.

One of these, still in preliminary stages, will deal with gambling on college and professional sports events and alleged efforts by gamblers to corrupt athletes.

Jerome Adlerman, subcommittee counsel, told reporters the drug hearings would explore the adequacy of existing law to deal with the traffic in narcotic drugs.

McClellan and Adlerman said the inquiry would be a major effort to chart the flow of narcotics from sources in Asia, Europe and Latin America to the United States.

Little has been learned of the subcommittee's investigations of gambling on sports, a field that it has explored previously. It is known, however, that the subcommittee has used its authority to sift through the income tax returns of gamblers and others.

2 Face More Quiz In Shooting Death

CINCINNATI (AP) — Police planned more questions for two Cincinnati men in the shooting death early Saturday of George Lee Brown, 40.

Norwood police said Tommie Mullins, 22, and Dempsey Morton, 21, had admitted being involved in the shooting, claiming it an accident.

Detectives said the two told them a pistol discharged accidentally, shooting Brown in the chest, and they decided in panicky haste to leave the body beside some railroad tracks in Norwood.

Officers said they recovered the weapon in a sewer where Mullins and Morton said they threw it.

Power Plant Set By Monongahela

Announcement of a $75 million power project on the Monongahela River tops the Monongahela Power Co.'s yearend review and Don Potter, president, pointed to other indications the area served by the utility is headed for economic growth.

The generating station will be erected below Morgantown with a related extra high voltage transmission system. The utility serves Hancock County.

The company will also spend more than $9 million in 1963 for improvement of facilities, in addition to the new power plant. He said the decision of the Allegheny Power System, of which Monongahela is a part, to embark on the huge generation - transmission program scheduled for completion in 1967, is additional evidence of the system's faith in the future of the area.

The $75 million project of Monongahela and other companies of the system is part of an 18-company program that will cost $350 million. Some 15 new industrial plants went into operation in Monongahela's service area and several established industries expanded, creating 1,500 new jobs with at least 500 to be added as the new plants go into full operation.

Duncan also has under his supervision the department's broad marketing activities.

In the past, the Extension Service has been separated in the department organization from the so-called economic action programs.

The thing that may set off outside criticism is the fact that Duncan said the Extension Service will be used to help educate individual farmers on the various farm control, price support and related programs.

Heretofore, the Extension Service has generally limited its educational work to passing along to farmers results of agricultural research.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Council of Farmer Cooperatives will hold its annual meeting at Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 7-9.

To be issued in mid-afternoon, the report will give the level of prices farmers received this month compared with a month ago and a year ago. In November, farm prices were running slightly more than 2 per cent above year earlier levels and nearly 3 per cent above two years earlier.

But much of the gain to November had been offset by increases in prices farmers paid for goods and services used in production and family living. These latter prices were running 1.6 per cent higher in November than at the end of 1961.

Farm prices were averaging 80 per cent of the parity price goal of federal farm programs late this year, compared with 79 per cent a year earlier.

They'll Ring In New Year In A Big Way

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP)—The Cecil E. Cooks' clocks will ring in the New Year in a big way.

The Cooks are clock collectors. They have 38 clocks in the 10 rooms of their home—no two set at the same time. The clocks will start bonging and chiming around midnight and will continue for some time thereafter.

The four British monarchs of the House of Windsor have been George V, Edward VIII, George VI, and Elizabeth II.

Drunk Driver Faces Embezzlement Count

BELLEFONTAINE, Ohio (AP) — A man arrested here for drunken driving was expected to be taken to Fort Wayne, Ind., today to face charges of embezzling $25,000 from a supermarket.

James Esterline, 41, of Fort Wayne was arrested late Saturday night. Sunday officers said Esterline told them he was the man being sought in Fort Wayne.

Authorities accused Esterline of depositing less money in the bank than the grocery he managed was taking in. An audit showed $25,000 missing.

Officers quoted the man as saying he had been driving aimlessly since Friday, "trying to get away from it." He did not have an unusual amount of money when arrested.

City Serviceman Escapes Injury As 2 Cars Crash

An East Liverpool serviceman hitch-hiking back to his Army post in New Jersey escaped unhurt Saturday when two cars collided in a heavy snowstorm on the Pennsylvania Turnpike near Bedford.

He is William Rager, grandson of Mrs. Cora Gill, 969 Church St., who was a passenger in a car driven by Miss Phyllis Dietrich of Worthington, Ohio.

The Ohio car skidded across the medial strip 10 miles east of Bedford and hit an oncoming car driven by Charles Conway of Pittsburgh, a serviceman stationed near Chelsea, Mass., according to Pennsylvania State Police.

Conway and Miss Dietrich were detained at Bedford Memorial Hospital. Police said two passengers in Conway's car were hurt —Vern Stevens of Columbus and Robert Dovich of Lowellville. Miss Dietrich is in "fair" condition with fractures of the skull, arm and pelvis and a ruptured bladder.

Rager had been home on a three - day pass from Ft. Monmouth, N. J. He started back Saturday morning, hitch-hiking from the Youngstown Interchange on the Ohio Turnpike. He notified his grandmother Sunday that examination at an Army hospital disclosed he was unhurt.

Pharmacist Fooled By Call—Wasn't FBI

"This is an agent of the FBI. We have information that your store is going to be held up in a few minutes. We have the place under surveillance and we will arrest the man as soon as he comes out. Co-operate with him in every way so we can get evidence."

A shabbily dressed man walked in a few minutes later and announced that he was staging a holdup.

He took $50 and some narcotics and calmly walked out.

Swire is still waiting for the FBI.

Unemployed Claims Rise

Continuing to spiral upward, 2,158 claims for jobless benefits were processed this month in East Liverpool, the Ohio State Employment Service office reported.

Claims this week totaled 670, a boost of 130 over the week ending Dec. 22, Dinsmore said. They included 183 new and 487 continuing.

West Virginia Traffic, Fire Take 5 Lives

By The Associated Press

West Virginia counted at least five deaths due to traffic accidents and a fire as the extended New Year's holiday entered its final hours today.

Two Jackson County brothers died in the fire which swept their small frame house at Ripley late last night.

Three other persons died in a series of highway mishaps earlier in the day.

The traffic fatalities increased the 1962 toll to 424 compared to 372 a year ago, State Police records showed.

The greeting of 1962 a year ago was blamed for six accidental deaths, including three highway accidents.

Sunday's victims included:

Floyd Bayer, about 45, and Claude Bayer, about 40, who were asphyxiated in the Ripley blaze. Fire Chief John Landfried said one body was found in the dining room of the house and the other in the bathroom. The fire apparently started in a bedroom. The cause was not immediately determined.

John P. Luzader, 47, of Clarksburg, who died when his car rammed into a bridge on U.S. 19 between Weston and Jane Lew.

Joe Cassino Jr., 53, of Morgantown, a State Road Commission employe who was injured fatally when an SRC highlift he was driving from Morgantown to Pentress went off W. Va. 7 about eight miles west of Morgantown and overturned on him.

Autos Hit In Chester; $800 Loss Reported

A total of $800 damage to two autos was reported by Chester police in an accident Saturday morning, blamed on icy street conditions.

Illicit Drug Traffic To Be Investigated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators are reported assembling evidence for a massive examination of the illicit drug traffic touching "more or less every major city in the United States."

The Senate Investigations subcommittee has worked with Interpol, the international police agency, and various foreign governments in preparing for the investigation.

Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark. plans an early meeting of the subcommittee to request an official go-ahead for the start of hearings, and to chart a tentative schedule for other major investigations in the works.

One of these, still in preliminary stages, will deal with gambling on college and professional sports events and alleged efforts by gamblers to corrupt athletes.

Jerome Adlerman, subcommittee counsel, told reporters the drug hearings would explore the adequacy of existing law to deal with the traffic in narcotic drugs.

McClellan and Adlerman said the inquiry would be a major effort to chart the flow of narcotics from sources in Asia, Europe and Latin America to the United States.

Little has been learned of the subcommittee's investigations of gambling on sports, a field that it has explored previously. It is known, however, that the subcommittee has used its authority to sift through the income tax returns of gamblers and others.

2 Face More Quiz In Shooting Death

CINCINNATI (AP) — Police planned more questions for two Cincinnati men in the shooting death early Saturday of George Lee Brown, 40.

Norwood police said Tommie Mullins, 22, and Dempsey Morton, 21, had admitted being involved in the shooting, claiming it an accident.

Detectives said the two told them a pistol discharged accidentally, shooting Brown in the chest, and they decided in panicky haste to leave the body beside some railroad tracks in Norwood.

Officers said they recovered the weapon in a sewer where Mullins and Morton said they threw it.

Power Plant Set By Monongahela

Announcement of a $75 million power project on the Monongahela River tops the Monongahela Power Co.'s yearend review and Don Potter, president, pointed to other indications the area served by the utility is headed for economic growth.

The generating station will be erected below Morgantown with a related extra high voltage transmission system. The utility serves Hancock County.

The company will also spend more than $9 million in 1963 for improvement of facilities, in addition to the new power plant. He said the decision of the Allegheny Power System, of which Monongahela is a part, to embark on the huge generation - transmission program scheduled for completion in 1967, is additional evidence of the system's faith in the future of the area.

The $75 million project of Monongahela and other companies of the system is part of an 18-company program that will cost $350 million. Some 15 new industrial plants went into operation in Monongahela's service area and several established industries expanded, creating 1,500 new jobs with at least 500 to be added as the new plants go into full operation.

McElhaney Is 25th Booth Winner; 310 At Fete

17 Former Recipients Attend Fete

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

A long line of former Bill Booth winners were introduced before the 25th recipient took his place as the Silver Anniversary of the award was observed at the most elaborate banquet ever staged for an East Liverpool High School football team.

The latest name to be added to the list of Potter greats was Floyd (Bud) McElhaney, who became the Silver Anniversary winner of the coveted award sponsored by the Senior Hi-Y Club.

The award was made again by Carl A. (Pop) Werner, general secretary of the YMCA, who has presented 22 such trophies.

A NEAR overflow crowd of 310 packed the hall at St. Aloysius School for the affair Saturday night which saw 17 of the past Booth winners in attendance.

McElhaney played offensive right end for the Potters during the 1962 season and won a letter at that position as a junior. At 140 pounds, McElhaney was the smallest member of the starting eleven but his coach Bob Hedmond said "he handled boys twice his size during the season and blocking was his biggest asset."

McElhaney had one of the top offensive grades among the Potter linemen. Averaging 75 per cent during the season at one stretch, he played five straight games when he averaged 80 per cent or better.

The 1962 winner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd McElhaney, 2111 Crawford St.

McELHANEY wasn't the only winner. Five other Potter regulars were honored with awards Saturday night. Voted the best offensive back on the squad was Tom Kraft while the best defensive back was Earl Olmstead.

Moving up to the forward wall, Bob Parsons was named the best offensive lineman while Scott Musuraca was voted the best defensive lineman.

Musuraca, an All - Ohio honorable mention choice and an All-County guard, also received the Coaches' Merit Award donated by the East Liverpool Review.

While the stars of last season were honored, the Potters looked ahead to next season when Bruce Burbick and Bob Bowyer were named co-captains of the 1963 squad.

JIM LOWERY, the former WOHI sportscaster and now part owner of Radio Station WSEN at Syracuse, served as toastmaster and guided a fast-moving program.

Lowery introduced all the past Bill Booth winners who were present and asked for a round of applause for those who couldn't attend.

Going back 25 years to 1938, Lowery called the name of Tom Taylor, still living in East Liverpool, who was the first recipient of the Booth award.

The long list of others who were present followed with Larry Bruno (1939), now head football coach at Beaver Falls High School; Chuck Deshler (1940) attendance officer at ELHS who films Potter football games.

WARREN STUB (1941) of Cuyahoga Falls, an analytical chemist for Goodyear; Dick Smith (1943) with T.S.&T. and resides in East Liverpool; Lee Hyder (1944) with the Prudential Insurance Co. in East Liverpool; Tom Bell (1947) resides in East Liverpool and is employed at Crucible Steel.

Nick Trua (1949) of Warren and works for the Moyer Construction Co.; Dan Cooper (1951) a lieutenant in the Navy now attending International Relations School at Harvard University; Jack Doughty (1953) program director of the Battle Creek (Mich) YMCA.

Dale Mays (1954) of East Liverpool who has his own masonry contracting business; Jim Potts (1955) a member of the Potter coaching staff and teacher at Westgate Junior High; Jim Kapp (1957) football coach at Willard, Ohio; Nick Musuraca (1958) of Denison University where he was a four - year regular at fullback.

BOB MACKALL (1959) of Northwestern University where he has been a member of the football squad the past two seasons; Joe Thompson (1960) a student at Baldwin-Wallace College in Berea, and Bill Burlingame (1961) who is attending Kent State University.

Ray Gochenour, the 1942 winner who was killed in action during World War II, was represented by his daughter, Colleen, of Beaver, Pa., and his mother, Mrs. Claude Gochenour, of East Liverpool.

DICK BOOTH, who now resides in Lakewood and is a former member of the Detroit Lions, related several incidents about his brother who met death in an untimely auto accident at the time when he was acclaimed one of the greatest college prospects since "Red" Grange.

Leland Schackern, Booth's coach who was at ELHS five years (1930-1934) warmed the crowd with his snappy humor. Schackern coached a host of All-Americans but athletic - wise acclaimed Bill Booth the best.

Nitschke Is MVP In 16-7 Victory

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Green Bay did it again. Only this time it was closer.

Vince Lombardi's Packers did not humiliate the New York Giants Sunday in their 16-7 victory at frigid Yankee Stadium as they had done in their 37-0 rout last New Year's Eve in Green Bay. The net result was the same, though. The Packers still are champions of the National Football League.

The story of the game is told best by the voting for the most valuable player. No Jim Taylor. No Paul Hornung. No Y. A. Tittle. All were ignored. The award went to Ray Nitschke, the Packers' 6-foot-3, 220-pound ballhawk who may be the middle linebacker of all-star teams for the next 10 years.

Nitschke recovered a Phil King fumble on the Giants' 28 late in the second period with the Packers holding a perilous 3-0 lead. Two plays later, after a 21-yard pass from Hornung to Boyd Dowler, Taylor charged headlong into the end zone on a 7-yard burst for Green Bay's only touchdown. Earlier Nitschke deflected a Tittle pass that was intercepted by Dan Currie.

Shortly after the Giants scored their only touchdown when Erich Barnes blocked Max McGee's punt and rookie Jim Collier of Arkansas recovered in the end zone, Nitschke swung into action again in the third period. He pounced on the ball on the Giants' 42 when Sam Horner fumbled a punt. Five plays later, Jerry Kramer kicked the second of his three field goals. The kicks traveled 26, 29 and 30 yards.

"You couldn't throw the long one on a day like this," said Coach Allie Sherman of the Giants whose club won the Eastern Conference title on the passing of Tittle. "Of course, it was the same for them."

It was 20 degrees at game time. The weather soon turned for the worse, dropping down to 17 with a 20-mile-an-hour wind blowing passes, punts, hats, dust and even the Packers bench (unoccupied) across the frozen turf.

The Giants stopped the first Packer drive in the first quarter and forced Lombardi to settle for a field goal. Then New York started to move with Tittle hitting Del Shofner twice and then King until Currie broke it up with an interception on the 10 and ran it back to the 40.

Although the Packers led all the way, ranging from 3-0 to 10-0, 10-7, 13-7 and finally 16-7, the Giants were in the ball game until Kramer kicked his third field goal with only 1:50 to play.

Willie Wood, the Packers' all-star safety man, was thrown out of the game for striking an official, back judge Tom Kelleher, after he was called for pass interference in the third period. The official said it was an overt act that called for a disqualification. Wood gets an automatic $50 fine.

The championship was the eighth for the Packers and their fifth victory in seven playoffs. They won three in 1929, 1930 and 1931 before the league was split into two divisions. The Giants now have lost four playoffs in a row and have a sad 3-10 record.

Going back 25 years to 1938, Lowery called the name of Tom Taylor, still living in East Liverpool, who was the first recipient of the Booth award.

WARREN STUB (1941) of Cuyahoga Falls, an analytical chemist for Goodyear; Dick Smith (1943) with T.S.&T. and resides in East Liverpool; Lee Hyder (1944) with the Prudential Insurance Co. in East Liverpool; Tom Bell (1947) resides in East Liverpool and is employed at Crucible Steel.

Nick Trua (1949) of Warren and works for the Moyer Construction Co.; Dan Cooper (1951) a lieutenant in the Navy now attending International Relations School at Harvard University; Jack Doughty (1953) program director of the Battle Creek (Mich) YMCA.

Dale Mays (1954) of East Liverpool who has his own masonry contracting business; Jim Potts (1955) a member of the Potter coaching staff and teacher at Westgate Junior High; Jim Kapp (1957) football coach at Willard, Ohio; Nick Musuraca (1958) of Denison University where he was a four - year regular at fullback.

BOB MACKALL (1959) of Northwestern University where he has been a member of the football squad the past two seasons; Joe Thompson (1960) a student at Baldwin-Wallace College in Berea, and Bill Burlingame (1961) who is attending Kent State University.

Ray Gochenour, the 1942 winner who was killed in action during World War II, was represented by his daughter, Colleen, of Beaver, Pa., and his mother, Mrs. Claude Gochenour, of East Liverpool.

DICK BOOTH, who now resides in Lakewood and is a former member of the Detroit Lions, related several incidents about his brother who met death in an untimely auto accident at the time when he was acclaimed one of the greatest college prospects since "Red" Grange.

Leland Schackern, Booth's coach who was at ELHS five years (1930-1934) warmed the crowd with his snappy humor. Schackern coached a host of All-Americans but athletic - wise acclaimed Bill Booth the best.

Twenty - four varsity football letters were presented by Hedmond led by Tom Kraft, who became one of few Potter gridders ever to receive three varsity grid awards. Nitschke Is MVP In 16-7 Victory

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Green Bay did it again. Only this time it was closer.

Vince Lombardi's Packers did not humiliate the New York Giants Sunday in their 16-7 victory at frigid Yankee Stadium as they had done in their 37-0 rout last New Year's Eve in Green Bay. The net result was the same, though. The Packers still are champions of the National Football League.

The story of the game is told best by the voting for the most valuable player. No Jim Taylor. No Paul Hornung. No Y. A. Tittle. All were ignored. The award went to Ray Nitschke, the Packers' 6-foot-3, 220-pound ballhawk who may be the middle linebacker of all-star teams for the next 10 years.

Nitschke recovered a Phil King fumble on the Giants' 28 late in the second period with the Packers holding a perilous 3-0 lead. Two plays later, after a 21-yard pass from Hornung to Boyd Dowler, Taylor charged headlong into the end zone on a 7-yard burst for Green Bay's only touchdown. Earlier Nitschke deflected a Tittle pass that was intercepted by Dan Currie.

Shortly after the Giants scored their only touchdown when Erich Barnes blocked Max McGee's punt and rookie Jim Collier of Arkansas recovered in the end zone, Nitschke swung into action again in the third period. He pounced on the ball on the Giants' 42 when Sam Horner fumbled a punt. Five plays later, Jerry Kramer kicked the second of his three field goals. The kicks traveled 26, 29 and 30 yards.

"You couldn't throw the long one on a day like this," said Coach Allie Sherman of the Giants whose club won the Eastern Conference title on the passing of Tittle. "Of course, it was the same for them."

It was 20 degrees at game time. The weather soon turned for the worse, dropping down to 17 with a 20-mile-an-hour wind blowing passes, punts, hats, dust and even the Packers bench (unoccupied) across the frozen turf.

The only points the Giants scored were turned in by the defense on the blocked punt by Barnes and the recovery by Collier.

The Giants stopped the first Packer drive in the first quarter and forced Lombardi to settle for a field goal. Then New York started to move with Tittle hitting Del Shofner twice and then King until Currie broke it up with an interception on the 10 and ran it back to the 40.

Although the Packers led all the way, ranging from 3-0 to 10-0, 10-7, 13-7 and finally 16-7, the Giants were in the ball game until Kramer kicked his third field goal with only 1:50 to play.

Willie Wood, the Packers' all-star safety man, was thrown out of the game for striking an official, back judge Tom Kelleher, after he was called for pass interference in the third period. The official said it was an overt act that called for a disqualification. Wood gets an automatic $50 fine.

The championship was the eighth for the Packers and their fifth victory in seven playoffs. They won three in 1929, 1930 and 1931 before the league was split into two divisions. The Giants now have lost four playoffs in a row and have a sad 3-10 record.

Each Packer gets $5,888.57 and each Giant $4,166.85 from the gross gate of $1,243,110, all records.

Midland Snares 2nd Straight Tourney

★ ★ ★ Defeats Ferry; Sallis Named MVP ★ ★ ★

BY ANDY NUZZO

Hank Kuzma's Midland five won the Midland Leopard Boosters' Holiday Tournament for the second straight year when they defeated the Martins Ferry Purple Riders, 58-50, before some 900 fans Saturday night.

Senior center of the Leopards, Bill Sallis, copped the most valuable player award for the second straight year. He led the all-tourney team composed of teammate Ray Hoppa, Tony Bumbico and Buck Worley of Martins Ferry, and Don Qualters of Munhall.

THE MOST valuable player and all-tourney team were selected by the four coaches.

William A. Walters, chairman of the tournament, and Dan Zuppe, boosters' club president, presented awards to Sallis members of the Midland team and the four coaches; Kuzma of Midland, George Milby of Martins Ferry, Gerald Conboy of Pittsburgh South Hills Catholic, and Pross Thomas of Munhall.

Sparkplug of Midland's seventh win in eight games this season was Sallis. He enjoyed his best night from the field, netting 24 points on 10 fielders and four of seven free throws. He scored 17 of his points in the firsh half.

HOPPA, the stocky Leopard guard, also enjoyed his best night in the scoring department, whipping in five field goals for 10 points.

Sophomore Sim Hill chipped in with eight markers, and along with Sallis, did a yeoman job on the boards. They were responsible for 27 of the 46 Midland rebounds. Sallis pulled down 14 strays and Hill grabbed 13.

Bumbico led the Purple Raiders with 17 points, on six fielders and five of eight free throws, although he had a hard time finding the range, Mike Lucas followed Bumbico with five fielders and one of three free throws for 11 points.

Midland hit on 24 of 65 field goal attempts for 37 per cent. Martins Ferry sank 20 of 64 attempts for 31 per cent.

Ferry pressed Midland throughout most of the game, but the Leopards used their great speed to overcome the press and they picked up some easy lay-ups 6 with fast breaks.

The Purple Riders led only once in the entire contest. That came early in the first quarter when Bumbico sank a driving lay-up to give Ferry a brief 7-6 lead.

SALLIS layed in a rebound and Hoppa sank a lay - up on a fast break as Midland moved to a 15-12 advantage at the close of the first period.

Martins Ferry managed to pull even at 15-15 at the outset of the second quarter on a free throw by Bob DiStefano and a rebound shot by Lucas.

SALLIS took a fine pass from Norman Vanlier and dropped in an easy lay-up to open the second half scoring.

Ferry came back with quick baskets by Bumbico and DiStefano, but Midland retaliated with baskets by Perkins and Vanlier and a free throw by Sallis to take a 39-27 lead with less than four minutes left in the third period.

At the 2:05 mark the Purple Riders lost the services of their big center, Gene Joseph, via personal fouls. Midland had a somewhat comfortable 43-32 margin as the third period ended.

A lay-up by DiStefano and a free throw and a jumper by Bumbico at the outset of the final period chopped the Midland lead to five points, 43-38.

FERRY was pressing the Leopards desperately but it did not affect Midland which muffed a few easy scoring chances at the start of the fourth quarter.

Hoppa scored the first field goal for Midland in the last quarter with 5:43 showing on the clock. A fast break lay - up and free throw by Perkins and a lay-up by Sallis put Midland in front by a comfortable 50-38 count.

MARTINS FERRY could not get within eight points of Midland the rest of the night.

Consolation honors went to the South Hills Catholic Knights who dumped Munhall by a 56-45 margin. It was the second time his season that the Knights have defeated the Indians. Earlier in the year, South Hills Catholic was victorious by a 52-44 count.

Both teams shot 31 per cent from the field, the Knights hitting on 17 of 55 attempts and Munhall connecting on 14 of 45 attempts.

Leading the way for South Hills Catholic was Fred Luvara, who canned 19 points. Tom Miller added 12 to the Knight attack.

Qualters paced the Munhall scoring with 10 markers, followed by Rich Meszar and Jed Connell, who netted seven points each.

Faces Bearcats On Saturday

Witchita Tops Ohio State, Eyes Cincy As Next Kill

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

With the mad annual whirligig of Holiday tournaments out of the way, college basketball settles down to normal this week. Most of the conference races get under way and the Missouri Valley resumes its chase of Cincinnati.

The Bearcats, national collegiate champions the last two years and the MVC titleholders three years in a row, have won 27 straight games and where it will stop nobody knows.

Coach Ed Jucker's outfit goes after No. 28 Wednesday against Houston, then opens its league season against Wichita Saturday. The team probably will be without the services of 6-foot-8 Dale Heidotting, who injured an ankle last week.

Since sophomore Ron Krick, who was counted on to fill the vacancy created by Paul Hogue's graduation, also is out, the Bearcats could be ripe for a kill. Wichita, especially, boasting a 9-2 record with seven straight victories, appears dangerous. Further, Coach Ralph Miller's Shockers already have knocked two teams—Arizona State and Ohio State—from the undefeated list. Wichita polished off the Buckeyes 71-54 last Saturday.

Cincinnati, 9-0 for the season, ranks No. 1 in the Associated Press poll, and Ohio State is No. 2.

BIG TEN—Illinois, No. 4 team in the country, won the Holiday Festival in New York, whipped West Virginia 92-74 in the final, and looks ready to make things rough for Ohio State.

SOUTHEASTERN — This one opens Saturday with the four top teams clawing at each other. Kentucky (7-2), No. 5 team in the country, entertains Georgia Tech (7-0)), and Auburn, (8-0), which won the Sugar Bowl Tournament with a 71-69 decision over Houston, faces No. 10 Mississippi State (7-2).

SOUTHWEST—Southern Methodist appears to be the class of the league, with a 5-0 record although Texas A&M, the Jonesboro Classic winner—67-53 over Tulane—has a strong entry.

BIG EIGHT -- Kansas won the league pre-season tournament with a 90-88 four overtime squeaker over Kansas State. Kansas opens against powerful Colorado Saturday and that should provide a definite line on how far the Jayhawks can go.

BIG SIX—UCLA (10-2), boasting eight straight victories and a 68-64 decision over Colorado State U. in the final of the Los Angeles Classic, now takes over the favorite's spot. Southern California, No. 7 in the current AP poll, lost twice in the tournament.

WESTERN ATHLETIC — The league chase doesn't start for another week, but sixth-ranked Arizona State (9-1) is the favorite. The Sun Devils won the Queen City tournament, turning back Canisius in the final, 67-63.

ATLANTIC COAST—Duke (8-2) which toppled all the way from second to eighth in the AP poll, clobbered Wake Forest, 113-87, the defending champion in a non-league game.

IVY—Penn and Princeton are the co-favorites, each with 7-1 non-league records. Lo and behold they clash in their league opener at Penn Saturday.

A fantastic total of 62 college tournaments wound up Saturday night. Loyola of Chicago, No. 3 in the country and the highest scoring team around, won the All-College tournament at Oklahoma City with a 93-92 victory over Wyoming to run its record to 10-0.

Money Cleared For Rematch Of Floyd And Liston

But the method used to clear it may hurt Patterson almost as much as the first fight did.

Promoter Tom Bolan said the government had approved a settlement of tax claims against the last fight Sept. 25 in Chicago, in which Liston knockedout the then champion in the first round.

Bolan said this was a major factor in a rematch, and he expected to make an announcement in a few days. He said either Las Vegas or Baltimore is the likely site, with Miami an outside possibility.

Under the settlement by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, all but 400,000 of the more than $2 million impounded the night of the fight will be released, Bolan said.

A play to pay Patterson his estimated purse of more than $1 million over a 17-year period had to be junked, Bolan said. The government agreed on a two-year pay period, which will up Patterson's tax payments a great deal.

The Purple Riders led only once in the entire contest. That came early in the first quarter when Bumbico sank a driving lay-up to give Ferry a brief 7-6 lead.

SALLIS layed in a rebound and Hoppa sank a lay - up on a fast break as Midland moved to a 15-12 advantage at the close of the first period.

Martins Ferry managed to pull even at 15-15 at the outset of the second quarter on a free throw by Bob DiStefano and a rebound shot by Lucas.

Sallis and Hoppa put Midland in front for good when the latter sank another lay-up. Sallis swished a jumper from the key, and Hoppa came back with a jumper from the corner while Ferry managed three foul shots.

Midland steadily pulled away and when Sallis stuffed in a rebound at the buzzer, the Leopards took a 32-23 lead otthe dressing room at the half.

SALLIS took a fine pass from Norman Vanlier and dropped in an easy lay-up to open the second half scoring.

Ferry came back with quick baskets by Bumbico and DiStefano, but Midland retaliated with baskets by Perkins and Vanlier and a free throw by Sallis to take a 39-27 lead with less than four minutes left in the third period.

At the 2:05 mark the Purple Riders lost the services of their big center, Gene Joseph, via personal fouls. Midland had a somewhat comfortable 43-32 margin as the third period ended.

A lay-up by DiStefano and a free throw and a jumper by Bumbico at the outset of the final period chopped the Midland lead to five points, 43-38.

FERRY was pressing the Leopards desperately but it did not affect Midland which muffed a few easy scoring chances at the start of the fourth quarter.

Hoppa scored the first field goal for Midland in the last quarter with 5:43 showing on the clock. A fast break lay - up and free throw by Perkins and a lay-up by Sallis put Midland in front by a comfortable 50-38 count.

MARTINS FERRY could not get within eight points of Midland the rest of the night.

Consolation honors went to the South Hills Catholic Knights who dumped Munhall by a 56-45 margin. It was the second time his season that the Knights have defeated the Indians. Earlier in the year, South Hills Catholic was victorious by a 52-44 count.

Both teams shot 31 per cent from the field, the Knights hitting on 17 of 55 attempts and Munhall connecting on 14 of 45 attempts.

Leading the way for South Hills Catholic was Fred Luvara, who canned 19 points. Tom Miller added 12 to the Knight attack.

Qualters paced the Munhall scoring with 10 markers, followed by Rich Meszar and Jed Connell, who netted seven points each.

Faces Bearcats On Saturday

Witchita Tops Ohio State, Eyes Cincy As Next Kill

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

With the mad annual whirligig of Holiday tournaments out of the way, college basketball settles down to normal this week. Most of the conference races get under way and the Missouri Valley resumes its chase of Cincinnati.

The Bearcats, national collegiate champions the last two years and the MVC titleholders three years in a row, have won 27 straight games and where it will stop nobody knows.

Coach Ed Jucker's outfit goes after No. 28 Wednesday against Houston, then opens its league season against Wichita Saturday. The team probably will be without the services of 6-foot-8 Dale Heidotting, who injured an ankle last week.

Since sophomore Ron Krick, who was counted on to fill the vacancy created by Paul Hogue's graduation, also is out, the Bearcats could be ripe for a kill. Wichita, especially, boasting a 9-2 record with seven straight victories, appears dangerous. Further, Coach Ralph Miller's Shockers already have knocked two teams—Arizona State and Ohio State—from the undefeated list. Wichita polished off the Buckeyes 71-54 last Saturday.

Cincinnati, 9-0 for the season, ranks No. 1 in the Associated Press poll, and Ohio State is No. 2.

Here's a rundown on the other major conferences:

BIG TEN—Illinois, No. 4 team in the country, won the Holiday Festival in New York, whipped West Virginia 92-74 in the final, and looks ready to make things rough for Ohio State.

SOUTHEASTERN — This one opens Saturday with the four top teams clawing at each other. Kentucky (7-2), No. 5 team in the country, entertains Georgia Tech (7-0)), and Auburn, (8-0), which won the Sugar Bowl Tournament with a 71-69 decision over Houston, faces No. 10 Mississippi State (7-2).

SOUTHWEST—Southern Methodist appears to be the class of the league, with a 5-0 record although Texas A&M, the Jonesboro Classic winner—67-53 over Tulane—has a strong entry.

BIG EIGHT — Kansas won the league pre-season tournament with a 90-88 four overtime squeaker over Kansas State. Kansas opens against powerful Colorado Saturday and that should provide a definite line on how far the Jayhawks can go.

BIG SIX—UCLA (10-2), boasting eight straight victories and a 68-64 decision over Colorado State U. in the final of the Los Angeles Classic, now takes over the favorite's spot. Southern California, No. 7 in the current AP poll, lost twice in the tournament.

WESTERN ATHLETIC — The league chase doesn't start for another week, but sixth-ranked Arizona State (9-1) is the favorite. The Sun Devils won the Queen City tournament, turning back Canisius in the final, 67-63.

ATLANTIC COAST—Duke (8-2) which toppled all the way from second to eighth in the AP poll, clobbered Wake Forest, 113-87, the defending champion in a non-league game.

IVY—Penn and Princeton are the co-favorites, each with 7-1 non-league records. Lo and behold they clash in their league opener at Penn Saturday.

A fantastic total of 62 college tournaments wound up Saturday night. Loyola of Chicago, No. 3 in the country and the highest scoring team around, won the All-College tournament at Oklahoma City with a 93-92 victory over Wyoming to run its record to 10-0.

Money Cleared For Rematch Of Floyd And Liston

But the method used to clear it may hurt Patterson almost as much as the first fight did.

Promoter Tom Bolan said the government had approved a settlement of tax claims against the last fight Sept. 25 in Chicago, in which Liston knockedout the then champion in the first round.

Bolan said this was a major factor in a rematch, and he expected to make an announcement in a few days. He said either Las Vegas or Baltimore is the likely site, with Miami an outside possibility.

Under the settlement by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, all but 400,000 of the more than $2 million impounded the night of the fight will be released, Bolan said.

A play to pay Patterson his estimated purse of more than $1 million over a 17-year period had to be junked, Bolan said. The government agreed on a two-year pay period, which will up Patterson's tax payments a great deal.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

TV's '10 Worst' In 1962

At year's end, while everyone else is compiling his "best" or "most memorable" lists, I still feel it is more of a challenge to select the worst things which happened. That's where the real competition exists.

Hal Humphrey

So, without further ado, I give you the unfortunate "winners" of Humphrey's Fifth Annual Ten Worst TV Awards:

Worst Situation Comedy: It's always a problem to pick a winner here, but last March the CBS network foisted a thing off on us called "Oh, Those Bells" and starring the three Wiere Brothers. Mercifully it ran only 13 weeks, then was buried without honor. "Don't Call Me. Charlie," "Joey Bishop Show" and "McKeever and the Colonel" were in the running, but lost by several laps.

Worst Variety Show (comedy or musical): With the ostentatious meaningless subtitle of "American Scene Magazine," the usually unique Jackie Gleason this season has manged only to do a tired rehash of his CBS hour variety show of some years ago. On a once-a-month half hour, Sid Caesar (ABC) so far is closing in fast on Gleason.

Worst Adventure Series (crime, Western, etc.): In the hope apparently that adding another 30 minutes to an hour Western would somehow make it special, Revue Productions and NBC failed miserably with "The Virginian" — an unimaginative, uninspired chestnut. But everybody probably will get his money back by peddling these as feature films in Europe.

Worst Entertainment Special: "Noah and the Flood" by Igor Stravinsky, with a creaky assist from choreographer George Ballanchine and the New York City Ballet, probably set the cause of TV culture back at least a decade. No self-respecting beatnik group would have been caught in this "Flood" which CBS unleashed last June.

Worst Quiz Show: The Goodson-Todman game factory for TV turned out another one for CBS. The result was "Password," involving guest stars teamed with Joe and Jane Does in word guessing supervised by a puerile fellow named Allen Ludden.

Worst Drama in Anthology Series: Last October Tuesday Weld and Fabian drove all over the Nevada desert for a Dick Powell show. It was called "Run Till It's Dark." To this day, no one has figured out what the drama was all about. The only drama to come close to this one for being opaque was a Show of the Week (also NBC) which had Claude Rains, Everett Sloane, Neville Brand, Richard Conte and Keir Dullea holding down "The Outpost." Tuesday and Fabe outsped them in that Jaguar, however.

Worst Drama Series: For pure soap opera, nothing can come close to "The Nurses" (CBS), unless it's Loretta Young, who roosts on the same network with a brood of seven offspring. If "The Nurses" was produced to discourage people from entering hospitals, it surely has succeeded beyond all expectations.

Worst Special Event: Last July 10, all three networks, the AT&T and a passel of politicians combined efforts to bounce the first program via the newly launched Telstar to Europe. For the most part, it comprised august statements from men like the AT&T's board chairman, FCC chairman Newton Minow and Vice President Lyndon Johnson, and the over-all picture was as old hat as one of those silent films showing Thomas Edison throwing the switch on his first Ediphone. Two weeks later, somebody wised up and got CBS's Fred Friendly to produce what came off as a properly produced Telstar program, but that first one was awful.

Worst Emcee or Host: Bill (Price Is Right) Cullen usually wins this trophy, but this year he has to step down while Hugh Downs mounts the pedestal. Hugh is getting so "sincere," one wonders if he doesn't hold serveral conferences a day with himself over what to wear, what to brush his teeth with and how to smile for his public.

Jefferson Gets $1,231,144 From Ohio Edison Tax

Local real estate and personal property taxes paid by the Ohio Edison Co. in Jefferson County in 1962, for the tax year 1961, totaled $1,231,144, according to the utility's office at Akron.

Of this total, $616,086 went to the Stanton Local School District. There was $597,116 paid the school district on the Sammis Plant at Stratton and $18,970 from other property in the district.

Taxes on the Toronto plant totaled $417,044, of which $344,963 went to the Toronto school district. Other property in that school district added an additional $803.

The fourth and final turbo-generating unit at the Stratton plant has been put into operation, marking the final phase in the largest single construction project in the Ohio Edison history.

The fourth unit will produce 173,000-kilowatts. The plant now is capable of turning out 692,000 kilowatts and is the largest power producer in the Edison system.

2 Stores Face New Sunday Sales Charge

Suit Is Dropped To Set Aside Sale Of Redlegs

CINCINNATI (AP)—Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy dropped his suit today to set aside sale of the Cincinnati Reds baseball club of the National League to William O. DeWitt.

The dismissal was announced in the court of Common Pleas Judge Frank M. Gusweiler in return for a pledge from DeWitt to keep the ball club here for at least 10 years.

The agreement also included DeWitt's promise to augment the present board of directors by the naming of four prominent Cincinnatians, and DeWitt's payment of an additional $350,000 on the balance of the indebtedness of the original purchase price.

Various clauses in the sale contract covering debentures also were amended.

It was disclosed at the press conference that Judge Gusweiler had participated as an arbitrator in the settlement of the suit.

Football Fans Are Set For Lengthy Afternoon

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Many people have troubles of one type or another on New Year's Day. But, not the poor football fan.

While some of his fellows have to contend only with the flickering that is produced by twitching, aching eyeballs, the football fan must coordinate that flicker with a flickering television screen.

He must get the two flickers in unison. Then he can not only watch but see the Big Four of the college bowl games.

Eight of the nation's Top Ten teams will be in action in the Rose, Cotton, Sugar and Orange bowl games and each of them is scheduled for national television coverage.

ROSE BOWL at Pasadena, Calif.—Top-ranked Southern California, 10-0, vs. No. 2 Wisconsin, 8-1, to be televised by NBC at 5 p.m., EST.

SUGAR BOWL at New Orleans — Third-ranked Mississippi, 9-0, vs. No. 6 Arkansas, 9-1, to be televised by NBC at 2 p.m., EST.

COTTON BOWL at Dallas — Fourth-ranked Texas, 9-0-1, vs. No. 7 Louisiana State, 8-1-1, to be televised over CBS at 3 p.m., EST.

ORANGE BOWL at Miami — Fifth-ranked Alabama, 9-1, vs. No. 8 Oklahoma, 8-2, to be televised over ABC at 2 p.m., EST.

The long windup weekend started with four games Saturday — featuring Florida's 17-7 upset of Penn State in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla. and continues today with the Sun Bowl in El Paso, Tex. West Texas State and Ohio University, each 8-2, are slated for that one. There is no national television of the Sun Bowl.

Passing Records Fall In East's Shrine Win

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Defensive football, usually less dependent than a T-formation offense on split-second coordination, is supposed to have the edge in all-star games where preparation time is short.

But you could never prove it by the East's 25-19 victory over the West Saturday as five passing records for the 38-year-old Shrine classic fell and a sixth was tied. Only once had more points been scored.

Ironically, the only ground touchdown of the game proved the winning margin as Iowa's Larry Ferguson powered 2 yards with only 1 minute, 27 seconds to play, breaking a 191-19 tie.

Until then, East quarterback Daryle Lamonica from Notre Dame and the West's Sonny Gibbs from Texas Christian had alternated throwing long touchdown passes, four of them within a 7 minute, 9 second portion of the second period.

Lamonica was a unanimous choice as player of the game after passing 349 yards for a Shrine game record. By halftime he had cracked the Shrine mark of two touchdown passes, but Gibbs quickly joined him.

Lamonica, who finished the day 20 for 28, completed all six passes and ran twice as he guided the East from its 12 to the West 2 in eight plays as time was running out. Then he handed to Ferguson for the winning points.

Firemen Give Aid When Pipe Snaps

Two minor calls were answered early this morning by city firemen.

They were called to the home of Mrs. Robert Rolley, 824 Bradshaw Ave., at 2:40 a.m. when a water pipe in the bathroom burst. Firemen said they had to turn off the home's water supply at the meter.

Firemen had just returned from a call at 1024 Dresden Ave. where they were summoned at 1:49 a.m. by an overheated refrigerator. Firemen said they moved the refrigerator outside after a woman complained it was leaking.

Robert Bird, 709 Central Ave., notified firemen at 7 p.m. Sunday that an explosion at his home had broken a picture window. Firemen investigated and said it appeared a rock had been thrown through the window.

Man Held In Toledo In Slaying Of Woman

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A 52-year-old woman, shot in the chest Thursday while sitting in a cafe, died in St. Vincent's Hospital Sunday.

The victim, Mrs. Delores Suzor, and her daughter, Mrs. Eva Andrews, said they had just sat down at a table in the cafe when a man they did not know approached. He pulled out a pistol, said the women did not like him and started shooting. Mrs. Andrews received a minor wound.

Held by police as the women's assailant was Stojan Kresojevic, 75, of Toledo. Charges have not been filed.

He is Mark McCoy, son of Mr. and Mrs. David McCoy, 459 1st Ave. The child was taken to the hospital in a cruiser after police were notified of the mishap by his mother, Mrs. June McCoy, police said.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

TV's '10 Worst' In 1962

At year's end, while everyone else is compiling his "best" or "most memorable" lists, I still feel it is more of a challenge to select the worst things which happened. That's where the real competition exists.

Hal Humphrey

So, without further ado, I give you the unfortunate "winners" of Humphrey's Fifth Annual Ten Worst TV Awards:

Worst Situation Comedy: It's always a problem to pick a winner here, but last March the CBS network foisted a thing off on us called "Oh, Those Bells" and starring the three Wiere Brothers. Mercifully it ran only 13 weeks, then was buried without honor. "Don't Call Me. Charlie," "Joey Bishop Show" and "McKeever and the Colonel" were in the running, but lost by several laps.

Worst Variety Show (comedy or musical): With the ostentatious meaningless subtitle of "American Scene Magazine," the usually unique Jackie Gleason this season has manged only to do a tired rehash of his CBS hour variety show of some years ago. On a once-a-month half hour, Sid Caesar (ABC) so far is closing in fast on Gleason.

Worst Adventure Series (crime, Western, etc.): In the hope apparently that adding another 30 minutes to an hour Western would somehow make it special, Revue Productions and NBC failed miserably with "The Virginian" — an unimaginative, uninspired chestnut. But everybody probably will get his money back by peddling these as feature films in Europe.

Worst Entertainment Special: "Noah and the Flood" by Igor Stravinsky, with a creaky assist from choreographer George Ballanchine and the New York City Ballet, probably set the cause of TV culture back at least a decade. No self-respecting beatnik group would have been caught in this "Flood" which CBS unleashed last June.

Worst Quiz Show: The Goodson-Todman game factory for TV turned out another one for CBS. The result was "Password," involving guest stars teamed with Joe and Jane Does in word guessing supervised by a puerile fellow named Allen Ludden.

Worst Drama in Anthology Series: Last October Tuesday Weld and Fabian drove all over the Nevada desert for a Dick Powell show. It was called "Run Till It's Dark." To this day, no one has figured out what the drama was all about. The only drama to come close to this one for being opaque was a Show of the Week (also NBC) which had Claude Rains, Everett Sloane, Neville Brand, Richard Conte and Keir Dullea holding down "The Outpost." Tuesday and Fabe outsped them in that Jaguar, however.

Worst Drama Series: For pure soap opera, nothing can come close to "The Nurses" (CBS), unless it's Loretta Young, who roosts on the same network with a brood of seven offspring. If "The Nurses" was produced to discourage people from entering hospitals, it surely has succeeded beyond all expectations.

Worst Special Event: Last July 10, all three networks, the AT&T and a passel of politicians combined efforts to bounce the first program via the newly launched Telstar to Europe. For the most part, it comprised august statements from men like the AT&T's board chairman, FCC chairman Newton Minow and Vice President Lyndon Johnson, and the over-all picture was as old hat as one of those silent films showing Thomas Edison throwing the switch on his first Ediphone. Two weeks later, somebody wised up and got CBS's Fred Friendly to produce what came off as a properly produced Telstar program, but that first one was awful.

Worst Emcee or Host: Bill (Price Is Right) Cullen usually wins this trophy, but this year he has to step down while Hugh Downs mounts the pedestal. Hugh is getting so "sincere," one wonders if he doesn't hold serveral conferences a day with himself over what to wear, what to brush his teeth with and how to smile for his public.

Jefferson Gets $1,231,144 From Ohio Edison Tax

Local real estate and personal property taxes paid by the Ohio Edison Co. in Jefferson County in 1962, for the tax year 1961, totaled $1,231,144, according to the utility's office at Akron.

Of this total, $616,086 went to the Stanton Local School District. There was $597,116 paid the school district on the Sammis Plant at Stratton and $18,970 from other property in the district.

Taxes on the Toronto plant totaled $417,044, of which $344,963 went to the Toronto school district. Other property in that school district added an additional $803.

The fourth and final turbo-generating unit at the Stratton plant has been put into operation, marking the final phase in the largest single construction project in the Ohio Edison history.

The fourth unit will produce 173,000-kilowatts. The plant now is capable of turning out 692,000 kilowatts and is the largest power producer in the Edison system.

CINCINNATI (AP)—Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy dropped his suit today to set aside sale of the Cincinnati Reds baseball club of the National League to William O. DeWitt.

The dismissal was announced in the court of Common Pleas Judge Frank M. Gusweiler in return for a pledge from DeWitt to keep the ball club here for at least 10 years.

The agreement also included DeWitt's promise to augment the present board of directors by the naming of four prominent Cincinnatians, and DeWitt's payment of an additional $350,000 on the balance of the indebtedness of the original purchase price.

Various clauses in the sale contract covering debentures also were amended.

It was disclosed at the press conference that Judge Gusweiler had participated as an arbitrator in the settlement of the suit.

Football Fans Are Set For Lengthy Afternoon

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Many people have troubles of one type or another on New Year's Day. But, not the poor football fan.

While some of his fellows have to contend only with the flickering that is produced by twitching, aching eyeballs, the football fan must coordinate that flicker with a flickering television screen.

He must get the two flickers in unison. Then he can not only watch but see the Big Four of the college bowl games.

Eight of the nation's Top Ten teams will be in action in the Rose, Cotton, Sugar and Orange bowl games and each of them is scheduled for national television coverage.

Here's the line-up:

ROSE BOWL at Pasadena, Calif.—Top-ranked Southern California, 10-0, vs. No. 2 Wisconsin, 8-1, to be televised by NBC at 5 p.m., EST.

SUGAR BOWL at New Orleans — Third-ranked Mississippi, 9-0, vs. No. 6 Arkansas, 9-1, to be televised by NBC at 2 p.m., EST.

COTTON BOWL at Dallas — Fourth-ranked Texas, 9-0-1, vs. No. 7 Louisiana State, 8-1-1, to be televised over CBS at 3 p.m., EST.

ORANGE BOWL at Miami — Fifth-ranked Alabama, 9-1, vs. No. 8 Oklahoma, 8-2, to be televised over ABC at 2 p.m., EST.

The long windup weekend started with four games Saturday — featuring Florida's 17-7 upset of Penn State in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla. and continues today with the Sun Bowl in El Paso, Tex. West Texas State and Ohio University, each 8-2, are slated for that one. There is no national television of the Sun Bowl.

Passing Records Fall In East's Shrine Win

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Defensive football, usually less dependent than a T-formation offense on split-second coordination, is supposed to have the edge in all-star games where preparation time is short.

But you could never prove it by the East's 25-19 victory over the West Saturday as five passing records for the 38-year-old Shrine classic fell and a sixth was tied. Only once had more points been scored.

Ironically, the only ground touchdown of the game proved the winning margin as Iowa's Larry Ferguson powered 2 yards with only 1 minute, 27 seconds to play, breaking a 191-19 tie.

Until then, East quarterback Daryle Lamonica from Notre Dame and the West's Sonny Gibbs from Texas Christian had alternated throwing long touchdown passes, four of them within a 7 minute, 9 second portion of the second period.

Lamonica was a unanimous choice as player of the game after passing 349 yards for a Shrine game record. By halftime he had cracked the Shrine mark of two touchdown passes, but Gibbs quickly joined him.

Lamonica, who finished the day 20 for 28, completed all six passes and ran twice as he guided the East from its 12 to the West 2 in eight plays as time was running out. Then he handed to Ferguson for the winning points.

Junior Editors Quiz on GEORGIA

QUESTION: Why was the colony of Georgia so successful?

ANSWER: The state of Georgia has a fine climate with good water and soil. But these attractions were not the main reasons for its colonization. An English colony had been established in South Carolina and this was threatened with invasion by the Spaniards who controlled Florida and the French who were in Louisiana. Another colony, the English felt, would strengthen South Carolina. Such a colony could also be a refuge for persecuted Protestant sects in various places and for poor but worthy English. A careful plan was worked out: Parliament gave 10,000 pounds to the "trustees for establishing the colony of Georgia in America" and forbade the sale of liquor and the importation of slaves. Oglethorpe settled in Savannah in 1733. The colony did help against the French and Spanish, but the industries planned did not work out well. However, in 1753, the charter of the trustees ran out and Georgia became a royal province. With this new rule and the development of its fine farm land, the colony soon became the most flourishing settlement in the south. The state of Georgia, with its many industries, goes on developing today. It is often referred to as the "Empire State of the South."

FOR YOU TO DO: This state is famous for many products. Two of them begin with the letters "p" and "e." Can you figure out what the products are?

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. What can I do when I've finished using a can of paint, but expect to use it again in another day or two?

A. You can preserve it and prevent any thick film from forming or the surface of the paint if you'll just pour a little water over it. When you're ready to paint again, all you have to do is pour off the water.

Q. What can I do about some honey that has become grainy?

A. Set the container in a saucepan of hot water, with a couple of sticks of wood under the container to keep the water circulating under it, and let it stand for several hours. Keep the water hot, but not boiling, and the honey should return to normal.

Q. How can I avoid the tedious and exacting chore of painting new strips of putty around my window glass?

A. One good way out of this chore is to mix a little paint of the desired color with your putty before applying it. Use the thick pigment from the bottom of the paint can, and knead it until the color is uniform. Colors in oil also knead well into putty.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: The girls in the office are having a difference of opinion. Will you please referee?

We are agreed it is bad manners to ask a friend how much she paid for something. But how about asking where the hat or the shoes or the coat was purchased? If the merchandise was bought at one of the swankier stores no one is embarrassed. But occasionally some of us pick up bargains in a little out-of-the-way place, or even in a resale shop or at a rummage sale.

One woman in this office doesn't even ask. She just yanks the collar of the dress and looks at the label. I say it's nobody's business where one bought the merchandise. May we hear from you on this?—PRESIDENT OF THE SOCIETY FOR PRESERVATION OF GOOD MANNERS FOR WORKING GIRLS.

Dear Madame President: A woman who receives a compliment on her hat, shoes or coat usually will tell where she purchased it within the first three sentences—if she wishes you to know. If the information is not volunteered, the question should not be asked. Collar yanking is absolutely out. Moreover, it is sometimes fruitless, because in the better dresses the labels are sewn in the skirt seams.

Double Tragedy

Dear Ann: We had a tragedy in our family and I need some advice. Our young niece, only 21 years old, was injured seriously in an automobile accident. She probably will be in a wheel chair for the rest of her life.

The circumstances surrounding the accident were ugly. The man is married and has a fine family. He is prominent in business circles and, naturally, there was plenty of publicity.

There was no way we could keep this information from our 11- and 13-year-old children. They read the newspapers and all the details were in print. Also, their friends heard their parents talking about it.

My husband's mother told our children that God punished Aunt Marie because she had done something sinful. I don't feel it is right to put such ideas into children's heads. We need your opinion.—SAD FAMILY.

Dear Family: Children should not be told that tragedy is God's way of punishing people. They then will believe that all individuals who suffer misfortune are bad.

When trouble comes to them, which is inevitable, they will have the added burden of guilt. Tell your youngsters that Grandma is mistaken, that tragedy can come to anyone and has nothing to do with how we stand in the eyes of God.

Letter Of Praise

Dear Ann: You'll never know the good you do. For example, printing that wonderful letter from the divorced woman who urged others in the same leaky boat to keep after the bum until she gets the support money which the court ordered him to pay.

I am a divorcee who raised five children. I have been in court so many times I could conduct the hearings myself. Keep telling people, Ann, that even if they can't afford to hire a lawyer every county has a district attorney who can help. If the ex-husband is in the military, every installation has a legal office.

The big word of caution is this: Be sure the original divorce papers state an exact amount of payment, plus any changes—such as an increase when the children reach high school age, or an increase if his income is increased. The good Lord helps those who help themselves.—IT HAPPENED IN MONTEREY.

Dear Monterey: Thanks for your letter. In next weekend's column I'm going to give an ex-husband the floor. He, too, has an interesting viewpoint.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Gov. Rockefeller Plans Hare-Tortoise Strategy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has adopted a hare-and-tortoise strategy in his quest for the 1964 GOP presidential nomination, reports reaching here indicated today.

The idea appears to be that Rockefeller will hang back, letting such other GOP stars as Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, Gov. George Romney of Michigan and Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania put on whatever burst of political speed they desire.

Then in the stretch Rockefeller, with that massive New York delegation propelling him, will romp to certain nomination or so his backers feel sure.

In line with this, Rockefeller is keeping comparatively quiet; has few speaking engagements outside New York, and is turning down a number of bids.

Officially, of course, Rockefeller has not entered the presidential competition, nor has Goldwater or Romney or Scranton.

The political betting is that Rockefeller will be in there fighting—and probably will get the nomination, barring some big change in the political picture.

For the present, Rockefeller strategists are passing the word that he thinks the GOP should remain flexible, giving full exposure to all its likely presidential possibilities and then pick the best man, a man with a positive approach.

"The governor," one said, "doesn't want to get in the position of assuming the mantle of the party nominee, or even the stance of a candidate for the nomination at this time."

Asked whether Rockefeller has shown any reluctance to come to grips with President Kennedy since the latter's rocking chair television interview — an event which struck even some Republican leaders as a political tour de force—the governor's backers scouted any such idea.

"He just does not want to assume the role of chief Republican antagonist to the President at this juncture," one said. "This is in line with his policy of not trying to put on the mantle of the nominee."

The labor movement among African workers has resulted in the organization of five million workers, an increase of two million since 1958.

Thaw Prospects Bring England Hope Of Relief

LONDON (AP)—Prospects of a thaw in southern England brought hope of relief today after a weekend of the worst blizzards in memory.

The big freeze spread over much of continental Europe. Rising temperatures in Austria and France brought the danger of avalanches around the crowded ski centers.

Deep snowdrifts brought traffic almost to a standstill in most of southern England. The weather man predicted that a belt of rain moving across the area later today might bring milder weather.

At least five deaths in Britain were attributed to the weather. A man and his wife froze to death in their car buried under a 15-foot snowdrift in a rural spot in Dorset County. The couple's daughter, grandson and another man were rescued unconscious and in critical condition.

Traffic in and out of main cities was halted completely. Snow lay so deep on some highways that attempts to clear it were abandoned.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: Every year we have a smorgasbord dinner given by the Woman's Society of the church. Our aim is to make money with this, not to spend it.

We serve several hundred dinners and use place mats for each dinner served.

I removed the sheets from the book, cut each sheet into two parts and edged each piece with pinking shears. They made such beautiful place mats that my daughters and I saved some of them to use when our card clubs meet.

EDNA BISHOP.

For those who cannot get outdated books of wall paper samples . . . did you know that wall paper stores have what they call "broken-rolls"?

These are sold at bargain rates. Buy a broken roll, even though you are not going to make place mats. This is wonderful to line shelves, drawers, wrap packages and many things around the house.

Temper Saver

DEAR HELOISE: I must write to you immediately. I have just this minute invented a honey of a temper saver!

Do you know how a banging shutter on the window can get on your nerves on a windy day? Well . . . on my way out to adjust it for the one thousandth time, I spied an empty plastic bottle which had contained a detergent. A miracle!

I wedged it in between the house and the shutter. Result — no more scratches on the paint, no chance of anyone being hurt if it should become dislodged and land on a small toe, and it is so pliable that it saved all measuring!

MAVIS REID.

DEAR HELOISE: Does anyone know what can be done to loosen the fiber in a wool sweather? I washed mine and it has shrunk beyond recognition . . . to about half the normal size.

Useful Squares

DEAR GALS: For those of you who have built-in sinks with the fantastic new square rubber stopper . . . which usually fits over a disposal, let me tell you how great they are.

These sinks are usually built square with a flat bottom so that your garbage and soil does not drain into the drain hole.

Now listen to this: Take that square rubber stopper, hold it on one side and literally scrap your garbage and soil down to the drain plug with the edge of the square rubber stopper!

I did this recently while visiting in an apartment, and was completely flabbergasted! It really is wonderful and can be used in any type of sink.

HELOISE.

Battery Extender

DEAR HELOISE: When you think your flashlight batteries are almost gone' open your flashlight, and remove the battery. Scrape the contacts and the bottom of the bulb on an emery board and watch it shine again! This lasts through several treatments.

When my sewing machine needles pull thread I sharpen them on an emory. One can usually find a "hook" on the end of a needle which will file off easily. I find this makes them as good as new. A whetstone is also good for this.

When washing my dresses in the wringer-type washing machine, I fold the front waist down on the skirt and fold the skirt around the waist itself so the buttons will not snap off when using the wringer.

M.F.B.

DEAR HELOISE: I always set my bread or roll dough on my electric heating pad at medium heat. It rises much faster and is aso very convenient on a cool day.

8 Children Made Parentless In Wreck Will Be Reunited

KANNAPOLIS, N.C. (AP)—Eight brothers and sisters begin a new life together today at the Church of God orphanage due to the efforts of a welfare worker, Miss Andrea Triplett.

Bentley lost control of the vehicle and it rolled down a steep incline. When officers arrived, they found Bentley and his wife dead. The children escaped serious injury.

The children were moved out of their four-room home to the home of an uncle. He was unable to carry the heavy burden and they were scattered to six foster homes in mid-November.

Miss Triplett, 21, the Caldwell County welfare worker who handled the case, found that the Church of God orphanage would accept all the Bentley orphans except 10-month-old Terry Wayne.

"I talked to them as a group. I explained to them this may be the only way they could remain together," Miss Triplett said.

The children are Abner Jr., 14; R. C. 13; Bonnie, 10; Jerry, 9; Darlene, 7; A. B., 6; H. T., 5; Danny Gene, 4, and Terry Wayne.

Chief Sets Up Rules For Supplying News

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—Police Chief Joseph Blackmore has set up rules for patrolmen supplying information to newsmen, including an order to release names, ages and addresses of persons arrested, whether juveniles or not.

Sunday's order followed complaints by press and radio representatives in the recent deaths of two juvenile girls — one ruled an accident, the other a homicide.

Columbus Newsman Accepts U.S. Position

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Norman H. Dohn, who joined the Columbus Dispatch as a reporter in 1948 and became an editorial writer nine years later, has accepted a position with the U.S. Information Agency.

Dohn will be assigned overseas as a foreign service reserve officer after two years of service in the USIA Washington headquarters.

Goodyear Gets Pact

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—The Goodyear Aviation Products Division announced today it has received a contract to produce wheel and brake assemblies for the Boeing 707-320C intercontinental jet transport.

Man, 57, Claimed After Auto Accident

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—A 57-year-old Summit County man died in Barberton Citizens' hospital early today about two hours after his car crashed into a ditch south of here.

Sheriff's deputies identified him as Fred Combs of Clinton.

Deputies said Combs' was driving west on Vanderhoof Road late Sunday night when he apparently lost control of his car after crossing some railroad tracks. The car went off the road and crashed into a dtch.

Deputies said the coroner was to rule officially whether his death was to be listed as a traffic fatality.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: The girls in the office are having a difference of opinion. Will you please referee?

We are agreed it is bad manners to ask a friend how much she paid for something. But how about asking where the hat or the shoes or the coat was purchased? If the merchandise was bought at one of the swankier stores no one is embarrassed. But occasionally some of us pick up bargains in a little out-of-the-way place, or even in a resale shop or at a rummage sale.

One woman in this office doesn't even ask. She just yanks the collar of the dress and looks at the label. I say it's nobody's business where one bought the merchandise. May we hear from you on this?—PRESIDENT OF THE SOCIETY FOR PRESERVATION OF GOOD MANNERS FOR WORKING GIRLS.

Dear Madame President: A woman who receives a compliment on her hat, shoes or coat usually will tell where she purchased it within the first three sentences—if she wishes you to know. If the information is not volunteered, the question should not be asked. Collar yanking is absolutely out. Moreover, it is sometimes fruitless, because in the better dresses the labels are sewn in the skirt seams.

Double Tragedy

Dear Ann: We had a tragedy in our family and I need some advice. Our young niece, only 21 years old, was injured seriously in an automobile accident. She probably will be in a wheel chair for the rest of her life.

The circumstances surrounding the accident were ugly. The man is married and has a fine family. He is prominent in business circles and, naturally, there was plenty of publicity.

There was no way we could keep this information from our 11- and 13-year-old children. They read the newspapers and all the details were in print. Also, their friends heard their parents talking about it.
